POLL TAX BAN TIED ON

Compromise Judiciary Nixes

... SENATE AGREED ON IT

Washington (AP)—A ban on poll taxes as a state voting requirement was riddled into President Johnson's right-to-vote bill Wednesday by the House Judiciary Committee.

Meanwhile the Senate turned down a Southern-based bid to let federal courts in the South rule on state efforts to escape the terms of the voting rights bill.

The House action came one day after the Senate voted 49 to 45 against including an outright ban on poll taxes in the legislation.

Wrapping up its action on the bill, the House committee voted to stand on its provision forbidding poll tax requirements in state and local elections, Texas, Virginia, Mississippi and Alabama require their voters to pay the taxes.

For Declaration The committee recommended a congressional declaration that poll taxes have been used to discriminate not only against Negroes but also against the poor.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said the vote was overwhelming.

It came after a 19-13 committee vote turned down the compromise poll tax measure endorsed by the Senate.

That one would send Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach into federal court armed with a congressional finding that there is evidence that the poll tax has been used to discriminate, and to seek a swift Supreme Court ruling on the levies.

Recommend Passage With the poll tax issue settled as far as it is concerned, the House committee voted to recommend passage of the Johnson measure provisions which would suspend literacy tests and authorize federal voter registration in much of the South.

"I think we have a good bill," Celler said. "It's not perfect." But Celler said he thinks the House will approve it, and added the measure would deal effectively with discrimination against Negroes.

"I think a bill of this character is epic-making," Celler said. "It's a tough job."

Katzenbach, Johnson and Senate leaders all have contended a congressional ban on poll taxes might be held unconstitutional. A constitutional amendment outlaws poll taxes in federal elections.

Ervin Loses 62-28

The Senate amendment proposed by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., was rejected on a 62-28 roll call vote after 2½ hours of off-and-on debate.

Ervin wound it up with a shouted charge that the Johnson bill would deny seven Southern states the rights guaranteed even to men accused of treason.

After the vote, Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana failed in another effort to win an agreement that would limit debate on the bill.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., blocked the move.

Mansfield wanted debate on each of more than 60 proposed amendments held to one hour, and that on the whole bill to six hours.

Raps Wandering "The opponents of this bill have used very little time," Ellender replied. "If only we could get the attention of senators to stay on the floor and listen to the debate, we might make more progress."

Mansfield hinted again at a possible move to invoke the Senate's debate-limiting closure rule, which takes a two-thirds vote.

"If we're going to get a limit on debate," he said, "it's going to be up to all of you, Republicans and Democrats alike."

Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois has said some Republicans — whose votes would be needed to halt the debate — are not willing to support a cloture petition at this point.

At the rate the Senate is going now, Dirksen said, it will be June 1 before the bill is passed.

Rockin' 7th Grade Band 'Discovered'

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

One of the youngest rock 'n' roll bands appearing on the Lincoln scene during the flood of new music groups does typical band performance activities, but is probably not so typical after all—it has already "been discovered."

The Gladiators Combo, a swinging group of 7th graders at Irving Junior High, helped their discovery somewhat by not waiting for the talent scout to find them—they went to him.

An audition for a television show resulted in a request for the combo to appear regularly—and they do, every other week.

The four members take their music seriously, practicing some two hours every Friday evening.

Even Own Money

The Gladiators Combo, the idea of a classmate, plays rock 'n' roll and rhythm and blues, according to printed calling cards. With their own money the youths purchased music and taught themselves to play the boys.

The youths participate in bands at Irving and give their music teacher, James R. Schlegelmilch, a great deal of credit for his encouragement and "help with the band members."

Although the 7th graders are "not in the money yet," the group hopes to stay together and eventually play for dances and other "good-paying" jobs. So far the Gladiators Combo has performed primarily at birthday and Christmas parties, employ parties, and "other social events."

The parents of the four youths are anxious to help them with transportation and refreshments, and do at least part of the managing. As one mother said, "We're happy when the boys get to play, but we make sure we know where and for whom they are playing before they do."

Wants To Teach Band member Craig Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Hill of 2211 Stockwell, wants to teach music. He plays tenor saxophone in the combo.

Joe Harley, combo drummer, is in an advanced school band and takes private lessons in his pursuit of a professional career. Joe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Harley of 3424 So. 30th.

The other two members, who also want to be professional musicians, are trumpeter Gene Schlegler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schlegler of 1941 Harwood, and guitarist Eric Heffley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Heffley of 2817 Franklin.

New Search Launched For Redistricting Setup

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature — faced with judicial threat of large elections in 1966 and elimination of all current four-year senatorial terms — began to search anew Wednesday for a valid legislative reapportionment act.

Voided by a split decision from a special three-member U.S. District Court tribunal was the reapportionment plan enacted on March 29, the second redistricting measure to trip over federal constitutional barriers in the past two years.

The court's verdict, and its order directing a renewed legislative effort to reapportion the Unicameral during the current session, provided little in the way of new judicial guidelines.

Only Charted Path

The only charted path for lawmakers is the requirement of providing population equality among legislative districts as equal to conform with the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, and earlier court rulings on apportionment equity.

What senators have found to be their stickiest problem — whether the Legislature may cross county lines in redistricting without violating the state constitution — was left unsettled.

The attorney general has counseled that the state constitution prohibits leaping county lines, and the Legislature abided by his opinion in approving the act which was voided Wednesday.

The validity of that claim is "unnecessary to be decided here," the court order stated. However, in the language contained in its nine-page memorandum ruling, the court indicated that drafting of legislative district boundaries without regard to county lines is a permissible alternative which may be considered.

Reduction of the size of the Legislature, with districts conforming to county lines, was also presented as an alternative solution.

But, the court noted, "each plan must be examined on its own merits."

The Legislature's swift reaction to the decision was to name a special five-member committee to review the ruling with Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer, then present its findings to all 49 members.

The committee, headed by Sen. Elvin Adamson of Valentine, will handle with Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard Williams and Special Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert Nelson at 1 p.m. Thursday.

Other members are Sens. George Gerdes of Alliance, Jules Burbach of Crofton, Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth and George Syas of Omaha.

Early senatorial conversation appeared to favor crossing county lines as opposed to greatly reducing the size of the Legislature.

Other alternatives mentioned: appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court; no action at all, in effect inviting the District Court tribunal to order at-large elections and void four-year terms; division of the state into perhaps a dozen large districts, with a number of senators representing each.

Will Take Steps

In any event, Meyer said, he will take steps to protect the state's right to appeal in case that is the course chosen by the Legislature.

Ruhnke revealed that he has already initiated preliminary steps to formulate a proposed reapportionment plan ignoring county lines.

Signing the court order were U.S. District Judges Robert Van Pelt of Lincoln and Richard Robinson of Omaha.

Judge Harvey Circuit Court judge, dissented from the majority opinion and reserved "the right to file fuller expression later."

In the event that the Legislature fails to act or fails to enact a constitutional plan then all members would be required to be elected statewide in 1966, the order stated.

It is apparent that the district has been created to facilitate keeping present members in office and, except in one district, to provide boundaries that will keep the present members from having to contest with each other at the polls, the court declared.

The goal of reapportionment," it noted, "is just representation of the people, not the protection of incumbents in a legislative body."

Voting disparity among the 50 proposed new districts ranges from 22,301 to 35,737, the court noted, equivalent to 1.6 votes to one vote. The 10 smallest districts are "generally in the area which benefited most under the area amendment previously held unconstitutional," it pointed out.

5 Exceed By 15%

Five districts exceed the average population by more than 15%, and six were more than 15% below the average, the order stated.

The court itself has "found at least three alternatives which are more proportionate than this plan," the order stated, including one which would divide the state into 37 districts following county lines with maximum variance of 1.26 votes to one vote.

"If county lines are to be followed, a legislature of 49 or 50 districts is an impossibility as a constitutionally valid legislative reapportionment plan," the court warned.

Washington (AP)—The United States displayed keen interest Wednesday in a proposal by India's philosopher-president, Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan, for a Viet Nam cease-fire policed by an Afro-Asian military force.

Ass't. Secretary of State William P. Bundy, a key official in Viet Nam policy making, called the Indian proposal very interesting and said it is being given consideration.

"It certainly is far more realistic than many other suggestions on the conditions under which the bombing of Viet Nam could cease," he said.

Careful Consideration

The State Department's press officer, Robert J. McCloskey, also said the Radhakrishnan plan is being given very careful consideration.

The plan was put forward last April 24 but attracted little public attention. Indian embassy officials discussed the proposal officially on May 1 with high officials at the State Department.

On May 9 Communist China denounced the plan as a "new plot to use African-Asian countries to serve the United States in aggression against Viet Nam."

North Viet Nam followed with its rejection.

The conference would have brought Communist China, North Viet Nam and the Soviet Union together with the United States, Britain, France and Cambodia, Laos and South Viet Nam.

Dominican Rebels, OAS Talks 'Near Settlement'

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP)—An organization of American States (OAS) team met with rebel leaders Wednesday and afterward an insurgent official said "There's every reason to hope we are near a settlement."

The rebel official, Foreign Minister Jottin Curry, declined to give specific reasons. But he said a peaceful solution depended on the dismissal of some key military officers backing the rival civilian-military junta.

Curry ruled out a coalition government saying, "Our objective is the restoration of the constitution." He said that acceptance of a coalition of constitutional objectives would be a repudiation of constitutional objectives for which we have fought.

—NATO ALLIES AGREE— Vietnamese War Threatens Peace

London (AP)—The NATO allies declared Wednesday night the war in Viet Nam threatens world peace, but they avoided proclaiming support for President Johnson's specific policies there.

Sources at the spring meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) foreign ministers said France was standing by its call for ultimate withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Viet Nam.

And French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville made it plain that France does not believe unconditional peace talks can get started until the Americans quit bombing North Viet Nam.

A statement on Viet Nam was included in a communiqué issued by the 15 allies after the two-day meeting of the council of ministers.

The communiqué came after Secretary of State Dean Rusk made a hurriedly arranged flight to London to explain behind closed doors the policies of the Johnson administration in Viet Nam as well as in the Dominican Republic.

In the key passage relating to Viet Nam, the communiqué said noncommittally: "The ministers reviewed comprehensively the international situation with particular reference to areas of tension or conflict, such as Malaysia, Viet Nam, the Dominican Republic and some African states where grave threats have arisen to international security and peace."

"They reaffirmed the right of all peoples to live in peace under governments of their own choice."

Rusk insisted on the inclusion of the first sentence of that passage which defines the Viet Nam war as a menace to world peace.

French Demand

Couve de Murville had demanded the inclusion of the second sentence which reflects President Charles de Gaulle's view that all peoples, including the Vietnamese, should be allowed to settle their own futures.

The carefully chosen words delicately balanced the positions taken by Rusk and Couve de Murville in a secret session of the council devoted almost entirely to the Vietnamese crisis.

Rusk had set out to reassure the allies about the course of American policies in Viet Nam. He had stressed American readiness to enter peace talks with the Communist powers, but equally he noted that neither North Viet Nam or Communist China had shown any inclination for such talks.

Conscious of French reservations, Rusk did not ask for a general NATO declaration of approval of U.S. policies.

Couve de Murville for his part made plain that France does not want a Communist victory in South Viet Nam. He repeated France's belief that unconditional peace negotiations should start forthwith and that the American ultimately must quit the country. And he implied without specifically putting forward any demand, that American bombing attacks on North Viet Nam should cease.

In the secret 3-hour debate three foreign ministers besides Rusk and Couve de Murville spoke out on Viet Nam—Britain's Michael Stewart, Belgium's Paul-Henri Spaak and Canada's Paul Martin.

All expressed hope that a settlement could be reached in Viet Nam without an escalation of the war.

Only U.S. Support

He said the junta had no legitimacy or popular support "except that extended by the U.S. military."

Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, president of the rebel movement, huddled with the two OAS peace commission members—Ricardo C. Colombo of Argentina, chairman, and Carlos Garcia Bauer of Guatemala.

Colombo and Garcia had met late into the night with U.S. Ambassador William Tapley Bennett, Secretary-General Jose A. Mora of the OAS, and Msgr. Emmanuele Clarizio, the papal nuncio.

This meeting took place on the outskirts of Santo Domingo and no word leaked out.

Highly Optimistic

However, Msgr. Carlizio had met Tuesday with Caamano and afterward said he was highly optimistic.

Colombo and Garcia had been ordered back Tuesday to Santo Domingo by the OAS in Washington to try to find a peaceful solution.

In another development, Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barreras, president of the civilian-military junta set up in opposition to Caamano's rebel regime, told a gathering of businessmen to try to help solve the crisis.

Powell Announces 'Victory' Over Chief Poverty Warrior

Washington (UPI)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell announced Wednesday he has won a dispute with R. Sargent Shriver about guaranteeing poor people a bigger voice in big city antipoverty projects.

The New York Democrat, chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, told a News Conference that the settlement clears the way for committee action Thursday on President Johnson's $1.5 billion antipoverty bill for the coming fiscal year.

Powell and Shriver, director of the war on poverty, have been at odds for some time over administration of antipoverty programs in the big cities.

City Hall Groups Hit

Powell has charged that "city hall" groups have refused to give the poor a voice on planning committees, and that "community action" committees have frozen out independent groups that have ideas for combating poverty.

Powell proposed rewriting the antipoverty bill to give the poor an equal voice on local antipoverty committees and to require that community action funds be split on a 70-30 basis between citywide agencies and independent groups. But he said this now was unnecessary.

In claiming victory, Powell read from a five-page letter from deputy antipoverty director Jack Conway insisting that "we have not permitted nor will we permit community action agencies to develop into bureaucratic monopolies."

President Requests Federal Pay Hike

Washington (AP)—President Johnson asked Congress Wednesday to boost the pay of all uniformed members of the armed forces and most federal civilian workers $853 million a year starting next Jan. 1.

And he proposed setting up a drastically different salary review system which would permit the President to order future pay changes into effect automatically unless Congress vetoed them.

Johnson's special message to Congress accepted most recommendations of a 10-member, blue-ribbon panel which he appointed last Jan. 28 to seek ways of gearing federal military and civilian pay more in line with nongovernment salaries.

Not Policy-Makers

The new workers under the executive branch excluded from the proposed legislation were top policy-making officials and some 600,000 blue collar workers whose pay is already tied to prevailing wages where they work.

Excluded also are retired military and federal civilian employees whose pensions are tied to the cost of living index.

Johnson asked for these pay raises:

- 3% for federal white collar workers—all Civil Service workers, postal employees and members of the Foreign Service—at an annual cost of $406 million.
- 4.8% for all in military uniform except enlisted personnel with under two years of service, who would get 2.7%. The cost was estimated at $447 million a year.

Headed By Folsom

The panel headed by former Welfare Secretary Marion B. Folsom had recommended that the increases go into effect July 1. But Johnson said he wants to wait until next Jan. 1 to hold the costs within amounts included in his budget for the fiscal year that ends June 30, 1966.

Johnson, in proposing a speedier system of adjusting pay scales that the usual legislative process, recommended:—Establishment of a "salary review commission" Based on its studies the President could propose changes in salary schedules for top positions in the executive, legislative and judicial branches. These would go into effect in 60 days unless the House or Senate voted its disapproval.

Would Keep Reporting

—The President would continue to make the required annual reports to Congress. When he included recommendations to keep federal military and civilian pay scales in pace with the civilian economy, these changes would go into effect automatically in 60 days unless the House or Senate voted its disapproval.

This system would permit members of Congress—by taking no action—to approve of pay increases for themselves without being put in the somewhat awkward position of having to vote directly on the question.

Johnson also plans to send Congress this week three other pay measures, which would:

- (1) authorize overtime pay for postal workers who are now denied this;
- (2) provide severance pay for those who lose their jobs because of the closing of military bases;
- (3) underwrite the moving costs of transferring military and civilian personnel.

Urges Speedy Action

The President urged Congress to act promptly on his sweeping pay proposals, saying: "We shall have established for the first time sound procedures for maintaining interrelated salary systems for both civilian and military personnel, which will be based on fair, clear consistent and up-to-date policies."

"And we shall be in a far better position to attract and retain in federal service the best talent in America."

Kennedys Arrive For Dedication

London (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy led a family delegation here Wednesday night to take part in the dedication of a memorial to the assassinated American president at Runnymede.

The party of 20, including six Kennedys, arrived on a presidential jet plane from New York.

They will all be at Friday's dedication ceremony in the meadows 21 miles southwest of London where the Magna Carta was accepted by King John in mid-June 1215. A site there has been deemed to the U.S. government as a memorial to Kennedy.

Main Tribute

This is Britain's main tribute to the late president.

The Kennedy party flew directly over Runnymede.

Waiting for them at the airport were another member of the Kennedy clan, Princess Lee Radziwill, and her husband, and senior American embassy officials. The princess is Mrs. Kennedy's sister.

Trips Down Steps

First off the plane was the late president's daughter, Caroline, 7. In a yellow coat and bright red shoes, she tripped down the steps ahead of her mother, who was holding on John, 4. He also wore a yellow coat and red shoes.

Mrs. Kennedy wore a white coat with a black hat.

Directly behind her came two of the late president's brothers, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

By ROBERT MUSEL

London (UPI)—In a room on the first floor of the Shepherd's Bush police station, one of the keenest detective minds in Britain is trying to look into the sick mind of one of the most dangerous murderers of the century.

The man whose curious thought processes Chief Detective Supt. John Du Rose is studying has certainly killed six women. A seventh victim, like the others stripped and strangled, may now be lying somewhere in West London.

And if he is not caught, there may be an eighth murder and a ninth . . . and more.

For the killer probably cannot stop. He appears to be in the grip of a sexual compulsion so strong it can be satisfied only with the death of its object. Scotland Yard knows this type of man well. A dozen years ago it sent to the scaffold the curious John Christie.

A meek, little, hen-pecked man to his neighbors, Christie slew and buried at least six women and perhaps as many as 15.

The present murderer is being called "Jack the Stripper" because, like Jack the Ripper who mutilated prostitutes in Victorian London, he picks his victims from street walkers. But unlike Jack the Ripper he takes away all their clothing and even their cheap jewelry.

There are other ways in which he has more affinity to Christie than to the still unsolved slayings in gaslit London.

Jack the Ripper had a grudge against prostitutes. Jack the Stripper does not abhor them. He patronizes them.

In the Shepherd's Bush "war room" Du Rose studies the information assembled by his staff and volunteered by frightened prostitutes who are cooperating with the police for the first time in years.

145-Detective Army

Recently he asked Scotland Yard for 25 additional detectives. This buildup gave him an army of 145 detectives occupied solely with the murders in addition to scores of policemen and policewomen operating in disguise in the vice-ridden West End area known as "the jungle."

The sudden request seemed to imply that Du Rose has a theory the killer is slave to a cycle, a period when the emotional surge bursts out of control. The six victims were killed roughly at two-month intervals. The last body was found Feb. 16.

So, if a cycle is operating a seventh prostitute may have already taken her last automobile ride.

Men who are prey to these obsessions usually react to only one type of girl. All six of the murder victims were small and slender. None could be called pretty.

All of the bodies appear to have been kept somewhere for a while. This, too, is more reminiscent of Christie's bizarre complexes than the simple hatred of Jack the Ripper (who may have been revenging himself for venereal infection).

It may also explain the absence of solid clues if, as is theorized, the murderer is a reputable Dr. Jekyll in his private life and a deadly Mr. Hyde only for a few hours every two months or so.

Du Rose may already have a vague description of the man he wants. Last December small, slender Margaret MacGowan came out of a pub with a girl friend and two cars rolled up. Miss MacGowan had packed a lot of the wrong kind of living into her 21 years and she quickly came to an arrangement with one of the drivers.

Buxom Blonde Beryl

Her girl friend, Beryl, a buxom blonde, got into the other automobile after they had agreed among themselves to guide their clients to an isolated spot on the edge of town.

Beryl, who has been too frightened to allow her surname to be published, said Miss MacGowan's car never arrived at the trysting place, nor did she appear later at the rendezvous they always kept after "working" hours. So the chances are that the driver that night was the man who hid Miss MacGowan's strangled body in a garbage dump.

Beryl said he was round-faced and thirtyish. He drove a medium-priced Ford. Police built up an "identikit" from her description and circulated the description to all media. There has as yet been no further progress.

Testified For Word

Miss MacGowan briefly achieved newspaper notice once before when she testified in defense of Stephen Ward, the society osteopath and artist who poisoned himself during his trial for living on the immoral earnings of Christine Keeler and Mandy Rice-Davies.

Friends of small, slender Mrs. Bridie O'Hara recalled that she had also spoken of a round-faced man. Her strangled body was found behind a factory in West London last Feb. 16.

Chief Detective Inspector Du Rose knows that every murderer, no matter how cunning, sooner or later makes a fatal error. The chances of finding the man with the round face multiply with every additional killing. It may come when, and if, a seventh body is found.

Meanwhile the police investigation has given the public a rare glimpse of the murky depths under the tourists' London of jolly Beefeaters, prancing Horse Guards and cozy olde English tea shoppes.

Gov. Frank Morrison Wednesday hailed the Agriculture Department's decision not to call in the 1961 corn crop as "an economic victory for Nebraska farmers."

Lutherans OK $1,072,033 Synod Budget

Hastings (P)—Delegates to the third annual convention of the Nebraska Synod of the Lutheran Church of America adopted a budget of $1,072,033 at their closing session Wednesday.

It was the first time the budget had topped the million-dollar mark.

Delegates voted to hold their 1966 convention from May 31 to June 3, the site to be selected later by the executive board.

The synod committee on reference and counsel presented a resolution opposing capital punishment and opposing bus transportation of parochial school pupils in Nebraska. They were referred to the executive board for further study.

The synod also adopted a resolution in concurrence with the 1964 convention of the Lutheran Church of America calling for federal legislation which would insure without racial discrimination the voting rights of all citizens.

They also favored state legislation which would insure without racial discrimination the opportunity for employment and freedom of residence for all citizens.

Little Primrose Girl Lends Sparkle To Grim Task

CPPD Restored Primrose Service By Late Sunday at Norfolk, C. R. Roselius, estimated $12,000 was spent on emergency restoration of electric service to tornado-hit Primrose.

Arriving shortly after the tornado struck Saturday, CPPD employees worked during the night and into Sunday to rebuild a 14,400 volt substation, set seven new poles, rebuild five blocks of primary and secondary electric service, string new wire, complete service to the houses still standing and put up eight new street lights.

Service to the auditorium, high school, telephone office, and city water pump was restored before noon Sunday and remaining service was restored by 5 p.m.

Line crew members from Fullerton, Albion, Scribner and Norfolk participated. The same tornado went through CPPD's 34,500 volt Norfolk to Neligh transmission line, hitting two miles west of Tilden and taking out eight 60-foot poles. The line was rebuilt by 8 p.m. Sunday.

In the event an agreement cannot be reached between the distributor and the committee, the question of legal action might then arise, but the function of the committee is one of achieving co-operation with the sellers.

Skeleton Found At Gretna Likely 500 Years Old

Gretna (UPI)—The skeleton of an Indian man about 35 years old has been found at the Gretna Fish Hatchery and authorities said it appears the man might have died 500 years or more ago.

Marvin Kivett, director of the State Historical Society, said there were no associated artifacts, making the exact era difficult to determine.

A workman cleaning one of the hatchery ponds made the discovery last week, according to hatchery superintendent Gerhard Lenz. Lenz said the workman's rake caught the skull.

The skeleton was removed from a position close to the bank of the pond.

Kivett said the body was well preserved because of soft earth around it. A natural stream runs through the pond, which is located at the bottom of a ravine.

The Historical Society has dug for many years in the general area around where the skeleton was found.

Abbey Plans To Bury Lady Anne Mowbray

London (P)—Westminster Abbey announced the reburial of Lady Anne Mowbray will be in the chapel of Henry VII the night of May 31.

The public will be excluded. The bones of Lady Anne, child bride of one of the murdered "princes in the Tower" when she died in 1481, were uncovered by accident on a building site in East London last December.

SENATORS TOLD STUDENTS TOO SMART TO BE DUPES

Phoenix, Ariz. (P)—Two University presidents told a legislative hearing Wednesday that the majority of their students are too intelligent to be used as "pawns" or "dupes" in political movements.

They also characterized "panty raids" as a product of modern society.

University of Arizona President Richard A. Harvill and Arizona State University President G. Homer Durham spent some two hours before the committee.

3-Pronged Probe

The probe was called by the Arizona senate public institutions committee to look into —Panty raids that brought some property damage last week at UA in Tucson which has an enrollment of 18,000.

—Student and faculty forums at both schools critical of U.S. foreign policy.

—Alleged dissension on the University of Arizona faculty. There were several flareups among committee members when they became incensed by questions from fellow senators concerning political activities on the campuses.

'Used As Pawns?'

As the hearing closed, Democratic Sen. Ben Arnold of Pinal County declared: "I wonder if some of us on this committee haven't been used as pawns." Arnold opposed the calling of the hearing.

Of student demonstrations, Harvill told the committee: "There are demonstrations throughout the land. This is not new. I can see reason why there may be more today. There are more people today. There are more problems today."

He said that "about 30 students" have been expelled as a result of last week's panty raids which ran for two nights.

Harvill estimated 600 students took part the first night and 200 the second, adding: "You can readily see that all the students at the institution are not out of control."

Policy Attacked

Several senators questioned recent programs at the school where U.S. foreign policy came under fire.

Harvill said that he didn't believe a "teach-in" last Monday night at the university was intentionally loaded against American foreign policy.

"Students are not dupes," Harvill contended.

He said that by the time they reach college their political feelings already are pretty well fixed.

London Diamond Suspects Held

London (P)—Four men were held by police in an 83,000 pounds ($212,000) theft of industrial diamonds from London airport April 5.

At a preliminary hearing, the four were ordered held in custody until further proceedings May 20. The accused men included two airport employees. The diamonds were taken from offices of the Irish Aer Lingus Line.

Apportionment Back Again

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Once again, efforts of the Legislature to apportion itself in a constitutional manner have failed. With a split two-to-one vote, a federal court panel of judges has ruled the latest Nebraska apportionment bill unconstitutional. It does not, said the court, meet the one-man-one-vote requirements of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Decreasing Ratio

Up to a ratio of slightly more than 50 percent difference exists now in the legislative districts that have been established. That is, for every one voter represented by a senator in some districts, there would be one and one-half voters for a senator in another district. The court indicated that it would accept no disparity greater than 25 percent but that it might accept that much difference between the districts with the largest and smallest populations. The court issued a warning that if no constitutional plan of districts is provided in time, at-large election of senators would be ordered for 1966.

There was some comment in the Legislature that at-large elections might not be so bad. Such a system, however, is full of pitfalls. It could result in a much greater disparity among voters than would be the case with the plan knocked out by the court. This would mean that every candidate for the Legislature would run on a statewide basis.

That could result in a great preponderance of senators elected from the more highly populated areas of the state. It would undoubtedly result in considerable voter confusion and a great deal of unintelligent voting. The average voter would never be able to familiarize himself with all the candidates for election.

It is assumed, however, that the majority of the Legislature will want nothing to do with an at-large election and will proceed, therefore, to find and approve an apportionment plan that meets the approval of the court. This, however, will not be an easy job. The court stated that it felt a constitutional plan was impossible if the Legislature sticks with its membership of 50 and with county lines. If county lines are adhered to, the court said, one constitutional plan might be the use of 37 districts as opposed to 50. One could gather from the court opinion that it would also think a constitutional plan could be adopted by abandoning county lines.

The Case Is Dropped

The Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals has decided by a 4 to 3 margin to dismiss criminal contempt proceedings against Mississippi Governor Paul Johnson and former Governor Ross Barnett.

Both men, in their time as chief magistrate of the state, flouted court orders directing the admission of James Meredith to the University of Mississippi. Their rabble rousing behavior contributed in some measure to the violence in Oxford which required the armed forces of the United States to preserve the public safety.

Boldly acting in the role of scowflaw is more serious when it is performed by governors who have been elected and have taken an oath to obey the law than when it is carried out by a citizen of less responsibility.

After several delays both men were

If senators are to discard either their number of 50 or county lines, the latter would seem to be advisable. To go down to 37 members would create a great many political problems that make the suggestion somewhat impractical. Also, the smaller number would increase the work load per senator and any action in this area should be in the opposite direction. If anything, we need a lower work load per senator for a more effective and intelligent handling of affairs. With fewer senators, either committee work would be overburdened or committees would be much smaller, thereby giving all matters that much less thought and consideration. A senator's job is tough enough right now without making it any tougher.

The Legislature has not crossed county lines in establishing districts because of an attorney general's ruling that to do so would be in violation of the state constitution. This, however, does not automatically make a conflict between the state and federal constitutions and, therefore, eliminate the state provision.

In this area, the federal court panel has seemed to open the door to testing of possible future action in state courts. In short, the court has not been very helpful—a situation that has prevailed for the long time it has had this subject under consideration for one reason and another.

The Legislature actually is in quite a box. A membership of 37 would be poor and crossing county lines might still be unconstitutional. Crossing county lines, however, might stand up even if it is tested in state courts for long enough time to get us through the 1966 elections. Meantime, the Legislature might want to submit a constitutional amendment to voters, eliminating the requirement for following county lines in any apportionment plan. At the same time, the Legislature might want to consider another constitutional amendment changing the membership to a maximum of 75 or 80 to allow for greater flexibility in determining districts.

It is apparent that senators are going to have a time coming up with a plan of districts that is both good and constitutional. This current Legislature, however, has been impressive up to this time and would be out of character if it fumbled the apportionment case.

found guilty and threatened with fines of $10,000 and $5,000 a day. Whether that effected their reformation we do not know. They have remained out of print since.

The whole thing leaves a bad taste. The threatened fines were ridiculously exorbitant and were no recommendation of a cool headed system of justice. But dropping the case in no way washes out the facts of their distasteful behavior.

It leaves one with the impression, rightly or wrongly, that a properly placed person can scoff at the law and get away with it. And this is not at all in character with the American reliance on the doctrine of justice equally for all.

The question arises of the pattern set by the case. Will it reduce the respect for our system of justice or enhance it? This is the question that America cannot afford to play around with.

The Dirksen Alchemy

The Washington Post is rejoicing over the conspicuous success of the Johnson administration and Majority Leader Mansfield in getting key legislation through the Senate. And it is delighted to reflect that the Great Society bills are getting effective support from the Republican party's No. 1 senator, Everett McKinley Dirksen.

Such harmony, it believes, is wonderful. There is a memorandum in this to the battered Republican party. It is that Sen. Dirksen has been, is, and always will be a Republican and at this juncture he is every astute in giving needed and popular measures a notable boost. In doing so he is performing a signal service to his party if it has enough sense to realize it.

The Republican party, in late years, has allowed itself to be identified, and some have gloried in it, as the party of the elite and wealthy minority, of big business, everlastingly opposed to doing anything for ordinary citizens. In this respect it has conducted foot-dragging administrations resulting in the loss of too many members who feel that whatever the Democratic party does it will be a great deal better than the Republican party would care to do.

Sen. Dirksen in his powerful and conspicuous position as the Senate's leading Republican is changing this image, and in cooperating with the Democrats he is infusing a measure of Republican philosophy in this flow of law which is largely in behalf of the rank and file. He is also restoring dialogue in the Congress which always should be the justification of the two party system.

In short Sen. Dirksen is showing his party how to get back into business. If it accepts his example as a party willing to confront reality and contribute to problem solving it will soon be back on the main line, running on schedule.

Johnson Political Woes

President Johnson may be finding that the practice of political wizardry is more difficult in the White House than in the halls of Congress. Whether you approve or disapprove of his current foreign policy, you must admit that it has not endeared him to the more liberal element of this party.

Some strong party factions see in our current involvement in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic the strong-arm kind of tactics of which they do not approve. They are not appeasers, as they are sometimes charged, but they are against international relations at the point of a gun.

And even in a more strict political sense than that, the President seems to be having difficulties. U.S. News & World Report says that "some friends of Hubert Humphrey, vice president, are saying that to date President Johnson has not appointed a single Humphrey man to an important post in the government. They obviously are not happy about it."

The magazine then goes on to report that "Ralph Yarborough, Texas senator and liberal Democrat who drew Johnson support in 1964, is not getting the patronage in Texas that he had expected. The President and the Texas senator are said not to see eye to eye on personalities in filling federal posts."

That, of course, is the curse of holding office — the impossibility of keeping all factions well knit together. It is inevitable that the President lose some of the support he had in his contest with Barry Goldwater. It is not suggested that he has suffered any fatal political losses but Republicans at this time should be finding things more and more to their political liking.

Oil Interests Plan Shale Land Grab

WASHINGTON — Fifteen hundred dollars is riding on a Senate committee hearing this week for every bus driver, bootblack, broker and banker in the U.S.A. On the outcome of these Senate hearings will partly depend the disposition of the U.S. government property worth $300 billion — enough to pay off the national debt. Or, if divided among 200 million Americans, it would mean a bonus of $1,500 apiece.

The property in question is the vast five million acres of government-owned oil shale land in Colorado, Wyoming, and Eastern Utah. It's estimated that it contains two trillion barrels of oil, and this bonanza is now the subject of intense backstage wire-pulling on the part of the big oil companies and the protectors of the public.

Lyndon Johnson probably doesn't know it, being busy with the Dominican Republic, Viet Nam, and other problems, but he is being quoted backstage as favoring his old friends the oil companies in the disposition of this hidden treasure.

In a previous Republican administration — Hoover's — Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur withdrew the shale oil lands from private leasing. At that time the market was glutted with domestic oil and not much was known about how to develop shale oil.

But with the end of other oil resources in the U.S.A. now foreseeable, shale oil has become the most important undeveloped resource in the United States.

Furthermore, it now appears possible to develop it by leaving the surface of the land undisturbed, and through the "in situ" process, burn the shale underground, perhaps nuclear energy, thereby distilling oil from shale.

So far, private oil companies have acquired 168,000 acres in the Wyoming, Colorado, Utah area as against the government's 5,000,000 acres. But they are now trying to horn in on government land by means of an archaic mining law passed in 1872 which permits private companies to obtain mining patents on government land for only $2.50 an acre. Oil shale land today is actually selling for $2,000 an acre. Yet private companies are now trying to get patent rights for $2.50 an acre.

Inside the Interior Department, Assistant Secretary John Kelly, a Texas oilman appointed by President Kennedy, is plugging for the oil companies. Lined up with him privately is Under Secretary John A. Carver.

Kelly and Carver argue that the oil companies can develop the lands more rapidly than the government, that industry can work out the new process of distilling oil underground.

On the other side is Frank Barry, Interior Department solicitor, a staunch battler for the public interest.

U.S. Conservationists Fill Void In Africa

WASHINGTON — Government programs like foreign aid and cultural exchanges get the headlines, but a private group called the "African Wildlife Leadership Foundation" is blazing a fascinating new trail through the jungles of intercontinental relations.

Headquartered in the National Press Building, the organization of sportsmen and conservationists is training native Africans to manage their own game reserves and protect the big game which roams the dark continent.

Kermit Roosevelt, former ambassador to Luxembourg, Burks Summers and Judge Russell E. Train are among the VIPs who have banded together to help fill a leadership void created by the gradual British-French withdrawal from Africa.

Launched four years ago with scholarship grants to bright young African students, the foundation has been educating them in veterinary medicine at American universities, and providing field training through the Interior Department's program at Yellowstone National Park each summer. The first graduate was recently hired as the only native-born African game warden for a large section of Southeast Kenya.

The foundation has helped establish a university for the study of game control at Tanzania (formerly Tanganyika) under the direction of Dr. Hugh Lamprey. Sixty students from the Ivory Coast, Kenya, Nigeria, Northern Rhodesia, Uganda and Tanzania are being trained there in the preservation of the big game which makes Africa a paradise for sportsmen, explorers and photographers.

Burks Summers became interested in African game preservation while accompanying the late Sid Richardson, Ike's multimillionaire Texas friend, on a 90-day safari in 1947.

He returned twice more as Eisenhower's personal representative to ceremonies marking the freedom of the French Cameroons, and the inauguration of the Liberian president in 1960. While there he made a trip 175 miles up the Zambesi river into the African bush country, camping at the same site as Dr. Livingstone had done a hundred years before.

Summers was fascinated to find that the Portuguese of Mozambique were providing regular medical aid stations and schools in that remote area which has been visited by few white men.

"Elephants are on the increase. They have no natural enemies, and hunters bag only a few hundred a year. In Tanzania thousands are being killed by the government because they eat the crops needed for the natives. Mozambique faces a similar threat to its food supply."

He says hunters are equally essential in America for preserving our game; that antelopes now roam our western plains by the hundreds of thousands, and there are more geese today than ever before.

Looks like we may have another "population explosion" to begin worrying about.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: I would appreciate information regarding the implanted pacemaker for the heart. What is its purpose? What is the life expectancy for a woman of 45 with a fluid retention condition?

—L. D.

There are many kinds of heart trouble.

One is heart block.

This means that the nervous impulses which control the beating of the heart do not occur soon enough. So the heart slows down. (The most frequent form of this problem is called the Stokes-Adams syndrome.)

An electric pacemaker applied to the heart will cause it to beat. This device is used in emergencies—in the operating room, or sometimes elsewhere, when a heart stops or slows down dangerously. It is also used in cases in which the rate is continuously too slow. Such electric stimulation can make the heart beat at a proper rate.

It would be rather clumsy if such a patient had to remain attached to the wires, transformers, batteries and so on, which apply the stimulus once a second or so.

Therefore a great deal of effort has been devoted in the last few years to finding some way which would permit the electrical apparatus to be miniaturized (like a very small radio set) so it can be implanted underneath the skin. The patient thus carries the whole thing around with him. After all, the amount of electricity needed to apply the stimulus is very small, and the batteries are small, like the tiny ones developed for hearing aids.

Yes, the batteries have to be replaced from time to time, but from the medical and surgical standpoint, that is feasible enough.

How long can a patient continue to use this artificial method of "telling" his heart when to beat? A recent report from the Mayo Clinic, revealed that some patients have been using such implanted pacemakers for four and five years. Ten years from now, we may find that patients are still going along with this method.

I should point out that the pacemakers are not a cure-all for just any type of heart disease. They aren't a cure for the tragically common heart attack. There are forms of heart failure which develop, not because of slowed-down heart rate, but because of some other defect.

The pacemaker is a remarkable invention for one type of heart trouble, the slow heart beat.

Every patient using such a device, whether implanted so he can walk around with it, or in the hospital where it is attached with outside electrodes fastened to his chest and back, should realize that 10 years or so ago this could not have been done for him. He would have been dead by now. Yet today he is alive.

I think it is a wonderful achievement. A patient who has lived an extra few months must think it is marvelous. One who has lived with it for years will have to invent a still greater word for it!

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the difference in procedure in enlarging the pupil of the eye and dilating it? Does the enlarging mean cutting of the iris? I know dilating is done with drops.

—F. D.

Dilating and enlarging mean the same thing. No, cutting of the iris would not be involved. The pupil automatically dilates or becomes smaller to suit the amount of light. Dilation with drugs (or "drops") is done by ophthalmologists so they can see into the eye better. That's also why patients wear dark glasses, or at that rate avoid bright light, for a little while afterward, until the drug has worn off and the pupil can close up to protect against excessive brightness.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any treatment or cure for chronic allergic conjunctivitis? I have had it since childhood; my eyes are constantly burning and tearing. I must be allergic to everything in the air. I also get pus in my eyes, and styes.

—MRS. R. W.

If it really is allergic conjunctivitis (inflammation of the conjunctiva, or membranes inside the eyelid and on the front of the eyeball) any effective attack must be at the allergy.

With the presence of pus and styes, I suggest a careful study of the case to make sure that it is not some chronic infection. Or, if chronic, irritation from the allergy may have inflamed the tissues and permitted infection to get started besides.

It is not a comfortable problem to have to live with; neither is it safe. I suspect that more than one condition is present, and urge that you consult an ophthalmologist (eye specialist) with the expectation that he will follow your case over a period of time.

Dear Doctor: Some of the girls at the office say they have had three-day or German measles several times. I understood that for the most part you get them only once, and the same for regular measles.

—K. K.

You are correct. Usually you get German measles only once. Some rare individuals do not produce antibodies, and so can have the disease more than once, but this is uncommon.

Some of the supposed cases of German measles aren't really that at all: Mild regular measles, mild scarlet fever, a fairly recently recognized ailment called "fifth disease" or Hungarian measles, all can produce a rash very similar to German measles, and doubtless account for a good many of the reports of having had it "more than once."

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Apathy

Hastings, Neb.

The chief executive of the State of Nebraska is complaining about apathy toward politics and government among University of Nebraska students because they didn't turn out in large numbers for his appearance with the governor of Kansas. He shouldn't knock it. Voter apathy is what has elected him to three terms as governor of Nebraska.

Viet Nam

Lincoln, Neb.

When France and Pakistan disassociated themselves from "Johnson's war" in Viet Nam, they mortally weakened the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. Their action called into question the wisdom of driving SEATO, to which only two southeast Asian nations belong, to identify itself with a policy that is opposed by the vast majority of Asiatic peoples. Embracing such a policy may well be for SEATO the kiss of death. If it turns out to be so, it will be for the reason that the organization has endorsed a policy of force without having first secured the support of either the U.N. or any major Asiatic power. That the creation of a system of minor client states is no real substitute for a great continental ally should have suggested itself to Mr. A. B. Winter, whose recent letter dilated the importance of the support of such under-populated countries as Australia and New Zealand. In view, however, of the critical attitudes of the USSR, Pakistan, India, Syria, Indonesia, Burma, Cambodia, North Viet Nam, and North Korea, not to mention China, important segments of the Japanese population and half of South Viet Nam — SEATO, without French aid, has become a rope of sand.

The U.S. is being pushed into a cul de sac from whence there may be no honorable line of retreat. We do not even have the assurance that the people for whom we are allegedly fighting approve this war. Have we ever taken the trouble to hold a plebiscite in Viet Nam, as was promised under the 1954 Geneva Convention? Mr. Winter asserts that "the U.S. was invited into South Viet Nam to assist in putting down the Viet Cong insurgency," but where is his evidence that the government that extended this invitation in fact enjoyed the support of a majority of its people? Mr. Winter contradicts himself in this connection when he admits that "our leadership must find a way to bring the people of . . . South Viet Nam into a position of accord with their government and vice versa."

The statement that "to negotiate in Viet Nam today would be a universal confession of failure" would not even elicit the endorsement of President Johnson, who has publicly proclaimed his willingness to engage in unconditional negotiations. Manifestly the only alternative to negotiations is expansion of the war. In a continental war, however, we would stand without the loyal support of a single major power in the whole Eurasian land mass. To urge our country to assume the risks of such folly is brinkmanship, but certainly not statesmanship. A policy of unlimited force could only accelerate a diplomatic revolution which has already commenced and which may end in a Franco-Russian entente and the reaffirmation of the Soviet-Chinese alliance. At best, we should be in a minority as respects the alignment of the major powers and numbers of nationals involved in the fighting. We would run the risk of the loss of leftist England, while a divided Germany would be of scant help to us. In the face of overwhelming Afro-Asian censure and the vacillation of once loyal allies, what hand would not wither that affixed its signature to such a policy?

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Retired Celebrities Could Be Inspiring Teachers

By ROBERT PETERSON

An admirable role for eminent seniors is teaching. Few things are more inspiring for youthful aspirants than face-to-face guidance from celebrities in their chosen fields.

This thought was kindled a couple of weeks ago when the legendary Lotte Lehmann conducted a master class in New York. The class, held as a benefit at Town Hall, got underway as 12 young vocal students from the Manhattan School of Music marched onto the stage and took seats.

Then out strode 77-year-old Mme. Lehmann in a black flowing dress. The applause was thunderous as this grande dame of music seated herself in a graceful high-backed chair before a small desk. She smiled warmly at the students, none of whom she had met before. Then she introduced the piano accompanist and called the name of the first performer.

A young man rose and began to sing a selection from Schubert. He had sung but a few notes when Mme. Lehmann interrupted. "No, no," she said, "this is a kind of prayer and must be sung with a deeper spiritual feeling of reverence. Try it again."

The young man began again and this time reaped a "Good, good!" from the master. But Mme. Lehmann stopped him several more times before the song was completed, correcting his pronunciation and tempo and offering suggestions on phrasing and interpretation.

The evening was not only entertaining for the general public but it provided a never-to-be-forgotten experience for the master class pupils as well as for the many other music students in the audience.

It also doubtless gave Mme. Lehmann a great sense of satisfaction for though she no longer sings she was in the spotlight again reaping respect and praise for her years and her accumulated wisdom.

When I met Mme. Lehmann later, I asked her for her thoughts on retirement. "People should never retire if their capabilities are intact," she replied firmly. "My voice began going when I was 62 so it was necessary for me to quit singing. But I had many things to retire to. Throughout my life I've had absorbing non-vocal hobbies including painting in oils, making masks, potteries, doing embroidery and antique antiques."

"I had been asked to conduct a master class in Santa Barbara, Calif. when a friend asked if I would conduct some master classes. I agreed and a settable day this gave some of my experience for 11 years more. I had taught master classes to students at the Music Academy of the West. It was a tremendous satisfaction and I've often wondered why other well-known elders haven't been persuaded to conduct master classes in their various specialties."

Great dear, I can't imagine the interest it would be generated if Bernard Baruch were to conduct some master classes in finance where he would listen to short papers on economic theory by outstanding students and would then give his suggestions? And how about master classes in retailing by J. C. Penney, in writing by Pearl S. Buck, in diplomacy by ex-President Eisenhower or in communications by General David Sarnoff?

Let's hope the master class concept catches on and provides a new and important role for celebrated retirees whose very presence can inspire students to new levels of achievement.

Tale Of Twins' Conflict Unfolds

Pasadena, Calif. (P)—A tale of conflict between wealthy twins is unfolding at the trial of Timothy W. Nicholson, charged with murdering his brother Todd.

Both prosecution and defense opening statements said each of the 22-year-old heirs to Cudahy Meat Packing and Pullman Sleeping Car fortune told the other: "I'll kill you."

The prosecution contends Todd's death, from a .22-caliber bullet through the heart last Dec. 7, was willful, premeditated murder. It asks a first-degree verdict, which carries a possible death sentence.

The defense maintains the shooting was an accident, resulting from an argument after their mother allegedly told Timothy that Todd had impersonated him to obtain a $1 million insurance policy, naming himself as beneficiary.

'Like A Volcano'

When confronted on the policy, the defense said, Todd, "vicious, arrogant, violent, psychotic . . . blew up like a volcano" and grabbed an automatic pistol.

Timothy grabbed a rifle off the wall, the defense said,

HOOKS FIRST

Memphis attorney Ben L. Hooks has been named judge of the newly created Division 4 of Shelby County (Tenn.) Criminal Court. Hooks, 40, is the first Negro to hold a judgeship in Tennessee since Reconstruction days. His appointment by Gov. Frank Clement takes effect in September.

Mountain Sheriff Equips Own Staff

Hazard, Ky. (P)—Every time his staff needs something for the office, Sheriff Charles Combs usually digs into his own pocket for the money.

In four years, this habit has cost him at least $15,000.

But instead of complaining, Combs is happy to have given a poor county a clean and efficient police force.

Perry County, like many in the mountains, is unable to pay for the equipment and supplies needed to run a sheriff's office.

Until Combs was elected in 1961, the county had no cruisers for the sheriff's staff and seldom any uniforms for the deputies other than store-bought khakis.

Hitchhiking Deputy

And it wasn't unusual to see a deputy sheriff hitchhike a ride to answer a complaint.

Combs immediately purchased two cruisers, complete with flasher astrodome lights and two-way radios. Later, a third was added to the force.

Then he bought smart, brown and tan uniforms for them with pistols, handcuffs and other necessary tools of the profession.

His radio equipment includes a base unit and six mobile units. Another unit is located in his home at Lott-hair.

Combs admits he didn't have to do all of this. "But I have an idea how an office ought to be run, and I try to see that it is run that way, regardless of the expense."

'Pride In Office'

He didn't like to see his deputies in overalls and he didn't want them hitchhiking. "I wanted some pride in the office."

The sheriff, who runs a profitable coal business and has other interests, decided to pay for the extras himself. Under the fee system, he can make up to $7,200 a year as sheriff but never has.

Combs is ineligible to succeed himself but his wife, Mrs. Bernice Combs, is running in the GOP primary on May 25th.

What happens to the equipment if she doesn't become sheriff?

"I have had good men working for me," Combs said. "They will get the cars. And I can use the radio equipment in my business. Nothing will go begging."

Timothy, chubby and bespectacled, and his mother, Mrs. Roberta Nicholson, both sobbed as defense attorney Max Fink described the dead brother as psychotic and told Superior Court: "From the mother you will hear the full story of Todd Nicholson and his problems."

Witness's Argument

Chief witness for the prosecution so far has been Enrico Bernal, a house painter employed by the twins. Bernal testified he witnessed a violent argument between the brothers the night of the shooting, saying he saw Timothy kick Todd in the back and shout: "I'll kill you." Bernal said he left before the fatal shooting occurred.

Wednesday, the seven-man, five-woman jury planned to inspect the death scene in the luxurious 40-unit apartment building the twins owned in nearby Temple City.

The twins, from Phoenix, Ariz., split a million-dollar inheritance from the Cudahy and Pullman empires at age 18. Their great-grandfather was the late F. Edward Carry, president of the Pullman railroad car firm, and an uncle is E. A. Cudahy Sr., chairman of the meat-packing firm.

Inheritance Grows

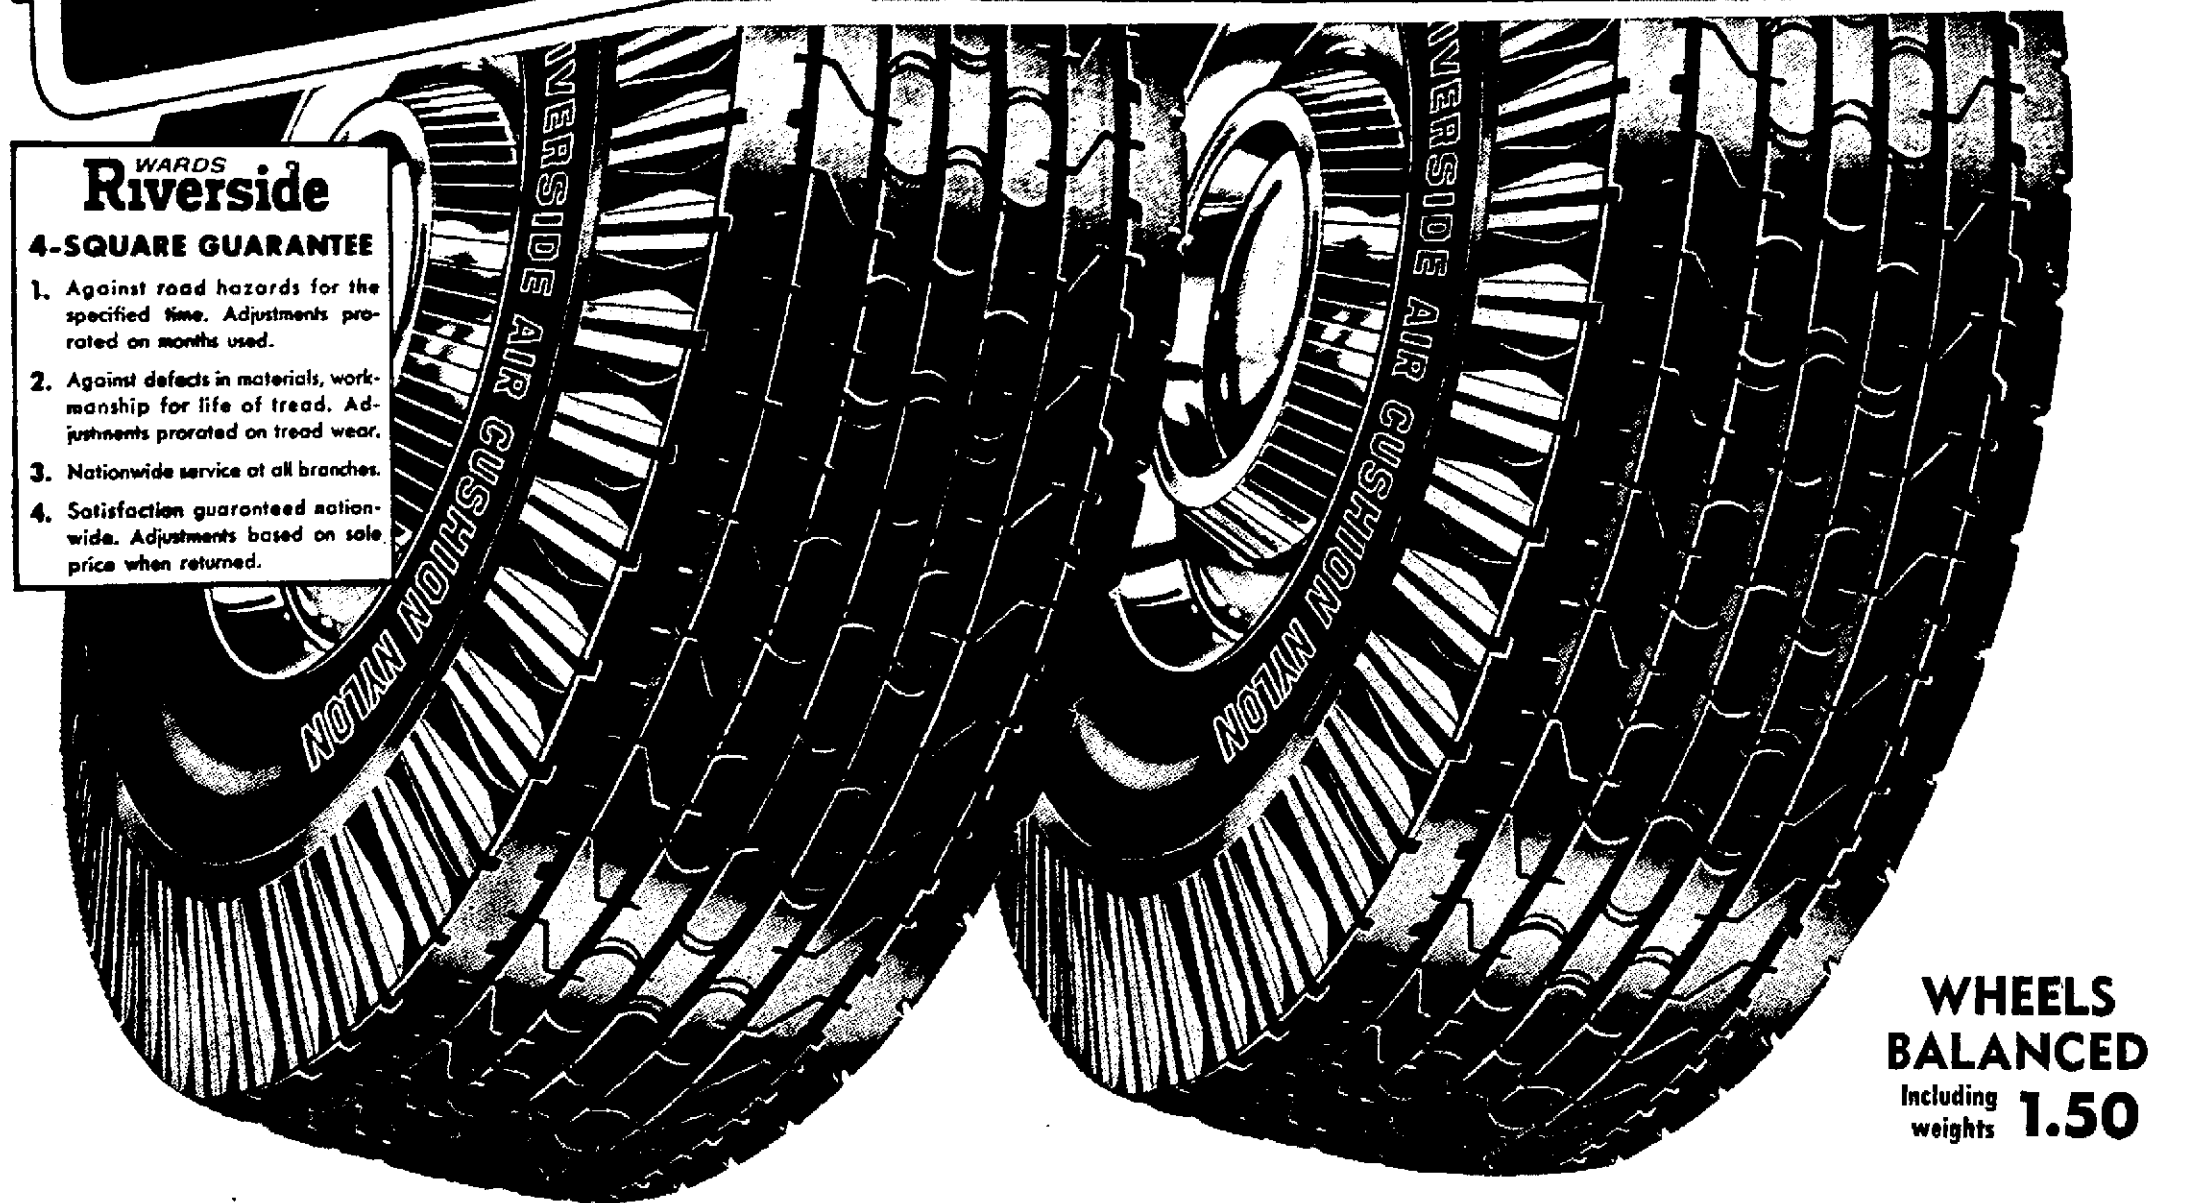

The twins ran their inheritance to an estimated $3 million with real estate and investment deals through their jointly owned Sun Investment and Development Corp. of Phoenix.

They also expanded real estate operations to California, buying apartment buildings in San Diego and Temple City.

In 1961, Timothy married a divorcee, but his mother had the marriage annulled in 1962, on grounds that he'd lied about his age.

The ex-wife, Patricia, 25, told investigators after the shooting that Todd forced his attentions upon her, even after her marriage to Timothy. "There was really bad blood between them—over me," she said.

Scholarship Fund Add To NU Budget Rejected

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Wednesday rejected on a 19-30 vote an attempt to add $150,000 to the University of Nebraska budget to provide a scholarship fund for needy students.

Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City proposed the amendment to LB889, the education-welfare-public institutions budget package, in view of the measure's proposed increase in NU tuition rates.

"There will be more hardship cases if tuition is increased," Stryker argued, "and this would provide money to allow them to go to school."

Budget Chairman Richard

Solons Pass Flood Control Aid Measure

Legislation sought particularly by the city of Norfolk to assist it in a flood fight with the Elkhorn River was passed 48-0 by the State Legislature Wednesday and goes next to Gov. Frank Morrison for signature into law.

The measure, LB462, increases from 10 to 25 years the maximum payoff period for flood control bonds issued by municipalities. It also increases the amount of flood control bonds which may be issued to five per cent of the city's valuation, as compared with a two per cent limitation at present.

The bill was introduced by Sens. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper, S. H. Brauer Sr. of Norfolk and Peter Claussen of Leigh. Because it carries the emergency clause, it becomes law the moment the governor signs it.

Robert Shively, general manager of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce, told the Urban Affairs Committee at a hearing on the bill that without it, "we cannot solve our own flood problems in Norfolk."

The full list of bills passed Wednesday (E - emergency clause):

LB147—Limiting bond call and prepayment restrictions on municipal drainage and street bonds. (Danner) (47-0).

LB708—Providing that cities or villages served by Consumers Public Power District at wholesale shall have a voice in selection of district directors. (Orme, Warner, Knight, Stromer, Bauer) (E) (47-0).

LB462—Increasing from 10 to 25 years the prepayment period for municipal flood control bonds, and increasing the maximum of bonds which may be issued. (Rasmussen, Brauer, Claussen) (E) (48-0).

LB708—Reducing from 12 to six months the maximum time for safe keeping of election ballots. (Orme, Knight, Warner, Stromer) (E) (47-0).

LB233—Redefining non-beverage users of liquor so as to permit bakers to use flavor for flavoring in bakery products. (Carstens) (47-0).

Rev. Berg Will Speak At NWU

The Rev. Darrel E. Berg, minister of Lincoln's Trinity Methodist Church, will address Nebraska Wesleyan University's Phi Kappa Phi Banquet Saturday.

The banquet, which launches the 76th annual commencement weekend, will be held at 6:00 p.m. in the Campus Center.

New officers and members of Phi Kappa Phi will be recognized.

Dr. Barber To Speak

Hastings—Dr. Elinore Barber, professor of music at Hastings College, will address the student body at chapel service Thursday morning at 10 a.m. in Calvin H. French Memorial Chapel on the Hastings College campus. Her address is entitled "Standing Room Only."

Marvel of Hastings said funds are already available for such assistance.

Some $500,000 in federal funds are expected to be provided during the next year through a new student work program for the needy. Marvel said.

Another $350,000 in student loan funds are available annually in federal national defense education scholarships, he noted.

Some $110,000 is provided in Board of Regents scholarships for 300 freshmen and 300 upper classmen, Marvel pointed out.

Sen. Lester Harsh of Bartley proposed that the $150,000 fund suggested by Stryker be formed as a loan fund, rather than as grants, but other lawmakers noted that such a proposal would violate state constitutional prohibitions against debt.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff supported the Stryker plan, noting that he had drawn a proposed amendment to accomplish the same purpose.

Voting with Stryker were Sens. Fred Carstens of Beatrice, Edward Danner of Omaha, George Gerdes of Alliance, Harsh, Pat Moulton of Omaha, Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln, Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln, George Syas of Omaha and Jerome Warner of Waverly.

In view of the Legislature's action, Stryker announced that he will withdraw a proposed amendment to add $375,000 to the university's general fund appropriations in order to decrease the proposed tuition rate for non-resident students.

LB889 projects a proposed tuition hike at the university from $204 to $260 a year for residents, and from $540 to $800 annually for non-residents.

Such boosts would raise $2.6 million over the 1965-67 biennium.

NU, Peru State Directed To End Practice Schools

By resolution, the Legislature Wednesday directed the University of Nebraska to phase out its University High School by 1968, and Peru State College to do the same with its campus laboratory grade and high school.

A 39-1 vote approved Resolution 44, introduced by Sen. J. W. Burbach of Crofton.

The schools involved are used for practice teaching and observation purposes.

But Sen. Burbach said the state should not be subsidizing local school districts in this fashion and noted that campus schools are being phased out at other state colleges.

He said the 1968 date will give the local school districts time to take over the operations.

The resolution was resisted by Sen. Calista Cooper Hughes of Humboldt, in whose district Peru State College is located. She said it would be impossible for the Peru School District to maintain schools of the quality needed for Peru State teacher training purposes. She said it will work a "great hardship on the community of Peru."

Burbach said he decided to offer the resolution in lieu of an amendment cutting back the appropriations to Peru State.

POSTCARD

A pair of enterprising Americans have been selling mail order pills and records to Britain for quite awhile now.

It's an old dodge, well-known to the American public: You sign up. Get free vitamin pills. Or a free record. You're a club member and future pills—or records—will be mailed each month.

You don't have to buy. If you don't want them, just mail back the monthly card.

What makes this such enterprising free enterprise, of course, is a whole lot of people forget to mail back the card. It's called "inertia sales."

Well, it's another rainy day in London. Rain dripping from the trees in Berkeley Square. Rain running off Franklin D. Roosevelt in his black stone Navy cape in Grosvenor Square.

Umbrellas up in Piccadilly. Rain beating on the tug boats on the Thames.

It seems the forthright English feel they've been had. And by sneaky Americans at that.

The firm under fire had two mail order projects: A kind of vitamin pill. (The makers ran into "cease and desist" orders on their advertising in the U.S. some years ago.) They also had a brisk mail order thing going on pop records.

The very essence of this kind of salesmanship is the collection. A number of people are going to be indignant when you bill them—just because they forgot to mail the "no, thanks" card.

You then have a series of pre-printed letters. First, appealing to their sense of moral responsibility. Building up to threats of hellfire and damnation. Not to mention high-powered legal action.

What is free enterprise to one nation is a con job to another. And there hasn't been so much indignation around here, I imagine, since word came in that the wily Americans had dumped tea in Boston harbor.

"Shawking affair," said the room waiter who saw me reading it at breakfast.

"Cheeky," said the pub owner where I had lunch. "If one's open to this sort of flubbery, what's coming next is what I say."

"Perfectly legal," said the company representatives. "We are prepared to cooperate fully with any inquiries of responsible government agencies."

I recall we got hooked on one of these record things—or my daughter did. Naturally, she never mailed any of the "no" cards back.

We got all kinds of records. And the bills.

The outfit was in Terre Haute, Indiana. And I wrote them pleading letters to stop the music. "Cease and desist." I wrote. "or I'll have the law on you."

Unfortunately I was writing to an IBM machine.

The machine sent me cards. The amount owed. A pre-printed threat of law suits. And a warning not to punch, staple or mutilate the card—which seems to be poison to an IBM machine.

So I punched the card. And mutilated it. And stapled it. And sent it back.

But more cards kept coming. I forgot how it wound up. I think I threatened to come back to Terre Haute and beat its electronic brains out. Or maybe I paid. Most people do to get rid of it.

That's why inertia selling is profitable.

The British version is pre-printed. But I kind of like the emotional appeal.

When people didn't pay for the monthly record—or the month's supply of energy pills—they got this letter:

"When I were a wee laddie and wanted something very much, I was taught that if I asked for it nicely I had a pretty good chance of getting it. A month ago I sent an invoice. I am asking you now in the very nicest way I know how..."

In spite of the appeal from the former wee laddie, a number of English people were indignant.

"Like bloody Arab rug salesmen," said the room waiter. "Now I remember a chap selling rugs in Alexandria. During the war. Butter wouldn't melt in his mouth..."

House Gets Tough On Closure Plans

Washington (AP) — President Johnson has been having his way with the House of Representatives on most of his proposals. But he is finding the vote-sensitive body a little tougher when it comes to shutting down local federal facilities.

For the second time in a week, the House Tuesday turned thumbs down on an administration plan to close some government installations.

By voice vote it added to an omnibus $14,109,908,000 appropriation bill $23.5 million to finance continued operation during the fiscal year starting July 1 of 11 Veterans Administration hospitals, four veterans domiciliary facilities and 17 regional VA offices.

Marked For Oblivion
All had been marked for oblivion in an economy move now being studied by congressional committees and a special presidential commission.

The House action, taken on a motion of Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., chairman of the Veterans Affairs Committee, upset an Appropriations Committee recommendation that pointed to a shutdown.

Last week the House voted to provide funds to keep open public service hospitals in Chicago and Memphis the administration had proposed to close.

Both decisions are subject to review by the Senate and neither would be binding on the President even if the Senate upheld the House. The President does not have to spend the money.

Teague told the House that if, after a review, it should be decided to keep open some or all of the veterans' installations, the money would be available.

Brief Struggle
Rep. Albert Thomas, D-Tex., chairman of an appropriations subcommittee that drafted the original bill, argued only briefly against Teague's amendment. The House, Thomas said, should wait for results of the pending studies before voting the funds and should not tell the White House "to take a jump in the lake."

Reliable sources said Tuesday that a special presidential committee has recommended that five of the 11 VA hospitals and two of the four rest homes be kept open.

The hospitals are at Bath and Castle Point, N.Y.; Grand Junction, Colo.; Lincoln, Neb.; and Miles City, Mo. The domiciliary homes are at Bath, N.Y., and White City, Ore.

At Least One
Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., said in Concord, N.H., that the committee also recommended that the VA not close all the 17 regional offices planned for shutdown, but retain at least one in each state.

That formula would save the offices in Juneau, Alaska; Wilmington, Del.; Reno, Nev.; White River Junction, Vt.; Manchester, N.H.; Fargo, N.D.; Sioux Falls, S.D.; and Cheyenne, Wyo., which had been ticketed for consolidation with other offices.

Impeached Justice's Defense Rests Case

Oklahoma City (AP) — The defense rested its case in Oklahoma Supreme Court Justice N. B. Johnson's senate impeachment trial Wednesday after a three-day running battle between accountants and attorneys over Johnson's financial dealings.

The prosecution then called one rebuttal witness and also rested, leaving only closing arguments before the case goes to the senate for a decision.

Prosecutors contend Johnson spent $10,000 more during a two-year period than records show he had available. Defense attorney George Bingaman countered that their method of calculating was erroneous.

"It was like trying to add apples and pears," Bingaman said.

Denied Charges
Johnson, 74-year-old national Indian leader who has served on the court 16 years, is accused of accepting $10,000 in bribes in 1957 and 1959 to influence his vote in two cases reversed by the court. He has denied the charges.

Using figures supplied by Johnson's accountant and tax attorney, Orval Veirs, the prosecution said Johnson spent $2,452 more than records show he had available in 1957, and $7,589 more than he had available in 1961.

As prosecutors recited the figures, Veirs totaled them on an adding machine placed alongside the green leather witness chair. He first said the calculations appeared to be based on "a valid assumption," but later said, "I have never seen such an approach made. It seems to me there's something wrong."

Exact Amount
Veirs said he has been unable to determine the exact amount of money Johnson spent in past years. "It's impossible because I have no way of telling what he spent in cash," the accountant said.

Veirs said Johnson hired him this year when the Internal Revenue Department questioned the judge's tax returns. He conceded that his financial reports were prepared "in the most favorable light."

Much of the testimony has dealt on Johnson's purchase of more than $6,000 in cashier's checks during a five-year period at a bank where he maintained a safety deposit box.

Veirs disclosed Johnson also purchased about $1,200 in cashier's checks at another bank during the same period, plus $400 in money orders.

Johnson's chief accuser is former Supreme Court Justice N. S. Corn. Testifying with immunity from prosecution, the 81-year-old Corn told the senate last week he accepted $157,500 in bribes and gave $10,000 of the money to Johnson.

Red Survivors Hiding In Hills

Saigon, Viet Nam (P) — Transports landed about 2 400 more U.S. servicemen Wednesday for the war against the Viet Cong while Communist survivors of the battle of Song Be, the latest big engagement, hid out in the hills.

The U.S. military force in Viet Nam rose to about 46,500 men.

A third battalion of 1,400 U.S. Marines moved ashore at Chu Lai, where the 1st and 2nd Battalions of the 4th Marine Regiment established a beachhead last Friday. Navy Seabees are to build an airstrip at Chu Lai 52 miles southeast of the strategic Da Nang Air Base, that should help in campaigning in the central highlands.

976 Borne In

The troop transport Mann bore in 976 men of the 173rd Airborne Brigade from Okinawa to join 2,000 other paratroopers of that brigade previously transferred by air. The newcomers, including an artillery battalion, were assigned to help guard the Bien Hoa airport, 12 miles northeast of Saigon.

Further foreign manpower may help to reinforce the South Vietnamese war effort. In Manila, the Philippine house of representatives voted 56-18 to send 2,000 troops—an engineering battalion with security support. The measure now goes to the senate.

In the actual drive against North Viet Nam, 12 U.S. Air Force F105 fighter-bombers were reported to have sunk two 70-foot junks and hit a number of oil tankers a Vinh 140 miles north of the border. Barges and railroad boxcars were among other targets. A spokesman said all the F105s and their 12-plane escort returned safely.

Talk Of Retreat

Dominating talk on ground operations was the retreat of the Viet Cong force that temporarily overran Song Be Tuesday—killing five U.S. Army advisers and 42 of the Vietnamese garrison—in one of the heaviest onslaughts of the war.

A senior U.S. military adviser, Lt. Col. John G. Hill Jr., of Alexandria, Va., said he believed at least 2,000 Red guerrillas took part in the attack on that provincial capital 74 miles north of Saigon and that they had intended to stay a while.

"The Communists planned to hold Song Be for 10 days," Hill said. "That plan didn't work. They were defeated."

Though only a few Viet Cong bodies have been found, Hill estimated more than 300 were killed and that from 300 to 700 were injured in the strikes by U.S. planes and Vietnamese troops that led the guerrillas to break off contact and flee to the jungled hills. Pursuing troops engaged one outfit briefly eight miles from Song Be.

Town Damage High

The town itself, a community of 15,000, was scarred heavily in the fighting. In addition to the military losses, there may have been as many as 80 civilian casualties. Both the public and military hospitals were full.

Song Be's Roman Catholic church, a yellow building, was rent with bomb holes. Grounds of the public hospital were torn up by bomb craters and Viet Cong entrenchments. The large brick market place was sieved and smoke curled from the wreckage of vendors' stalls.

The guerrillas had made a stand at the church, the hospital and market place after failing in efforts to seize three military installations. U.S. planes were called in to bomb them out.

108,100 American Men Deployed In War Zones

Washington (P) — The United States now has about 108,100 fighting men deployed in war zones on two sides of the world—including ground troops, airmen and crews aboard warships in the areas of conflict.

The 73,500 ashore or in ships in the Viet Nam zone and the 34,600 in and around the Dominican Republic are in active fighting zones.

When forces standing guard against possible trouble elsewhere are added to these, about 760,000 servicemen are overseas.

This is more than a quarter of the current military land power of the U.S. armed forces.

The landing Wednesday morning of more paratroopers and Marines brought total U.S. shore-based strength in Viet Nam to about 46,500. Aboard ships of the 7th Fleet off the Viet Nam coast are another 27,000 men.

Dominican Personnel

In the Dominican Republic are 23,100 paratroopers, Marines and Air Force personnel. In Navy ships hovering in Caribbean and Atlantic waters near the strife-torn Dominican Republic, are about 11,500 men.

Cold war requirements compel more legions to stand in strategic positions overseas, ready to meet trouble. In Korea, there are 50,000 men and in Okinawa about 30,000; in the Philippines about 15,000.

In Europe and adjacent territory, including Turkey, there are approximately 328,000 men. Of these, 250,000 are in the 7th Army in West Germany, with more thousands in such places as France, Britain, Italy and Spain.

In smaller numbers, American forces also are deployed in Thailand, Guam, Midway, Iceland, Greenland, Bermuda, the Azores, the U.S. Naval base in Guantanamo, and Puerto Rico.

Strain On Reserve

Outbreaks of trouble in another place or further escalation of activity in Viet Nam could begin to place a strain on the strategic reserve forces kept ready in the United States for quick dispatch to anywhere.

This reserve has not been dipped into deeply—yet. The 46,500 Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force in Viet Nam are in units of no more than battalion size or, in the case of many, they are there as individual "advisers" to the South Vietnamese forces.

There is continuing speculation, however, that a full Army division may be sent to Viet Nam or Marine units already there may be joined by the rest of their 3rd division from Okinawa.

Two Divisions

The Dominican crisis has tapped the strategic reserve force for the major portion of two divisions—the Army's 82nd Airborne and the Marine's 2nd Division.

But still in the United States are six combat-ready divisions, plus two less ready armored divisions and a Marine division minus one brigade which was sent to Okinawa to replace some of the strength diverted to Viet Nam.

Up to now there has been no indication from official Pentagon quarters of intention to augment the over-all manpower strength currently about 2,644,000.

A draft call last week was the largest in 20 months—17,000 for the month of June.

Ex-Convict Tells Of Banker, Forger

Cy Friedman Elected

Thursday, May 13, 1965

The Lincoln Star 13

Washington — An ex-convict testified Wednesday he introduced a professional forger to James W. Egan, principal stockholder in the Brighton, Colo., National Bank. The bank closed after $1.35 million in counterfeit securities and forged notes were exchanged for cash loans.

Egan refused to tell the Senate investigations subcommittee anything at all about his activities in the bank, pleading possible self-incrimination.

The subcommittee heard testimony Tuesday that counterfeit securities which would have had a $1.1 million market value if they had been genuine were given the bank as security for a loan. The bank closed last Jan. 22.

8 Forged Notes

Wednesday the investigation centered on eight forged notes totaling $250,000 and on the conduct of former bank President Hugh Best and Egan.

Richard M. Horton, a former convict involved with them, testified he introduced Egan to Edward Scott Flohr, whom Horton described as a professional forger and man of many aliases. The subcommittee was told that Flohr now is serving time for parole violation in California's Folsom Penitentiary.

JAMES W. EGAN

RICHARD M. HORTON

Subcommittee investigator John J. Walsh testified that Los Angeles police found evidence in Flohr's home linking him to both the counterfeit securities and forged notes at the Brighton bank.

Subcommittee counsel Jerome S. Alderman asked Horton whether he had introduced Flohr to Egan as "the best penman or mechanic in the business."

"I had some conversation along those lines with Mr. Egan," Horton said. "He was amazed by it. He was not disturbed by it."

Best testified earlier that

Horton had brought the notes to the bank, signed by eight California doctors and, in some cases their wives. He said the loans were granted by Egan on the basis of financial statements.

The loans were granted in early February 1964, with $25,000 of the proceeds paid in cash and the rest in cashier's checks.

Brilliant Blonde Charged In $400,000 Theft From Rich Industrialist Father

Miami Fla. (AP) — The brilliant blonde daughter of a rich South Carolina manufacturer, voluntarily surrendered Wednesday on a charge that she helped steal $400,000 from her own father.

Mary Jane Hollingsworth Farrell, 19, the youngest student ever graduated from the University of Miami, refused to waive extradition to Greenville, S.C., where her mother is also charged with the theft.

Accompanied by her husband—whose brother pleaded guilty to swiping the money from an executive bathroom—Mrs. Farrell was left in the custody of her attorney.

The lawyer Philip Mandina, said the money belonged to Mary Jane's mother. She had filed a partnership suit against the father more than six months before the theft, he said.

"The money wasn't even reported missing until January of this year," said Mandina. The theft took place more than a year ago.

Mary Jane and her husband appeared before a justice of the peace, who postponed further action for 30 days. That action will give South Carolina time to obtain a governor's extradition warrant on charges of house breaking and grand larceny.

Mary Jane who was 16 when she got her college diploma, made news all over the country two years ago when newspaper stories appeared showing how she and her husband, Walter, kept their baby in a glass-enclosed, temperature-controlled crib "It's part of our battle with bacteria," Walter said.

Walter's brother, Jeffrey Bruce Farrell, 21, testified in General Sessions Court in Greenville Monday that he took the money from John D. Hollingsworth's textile machinery plant April 6, 1964.

What happened to $389,000 of it officially remains a mystery.

He told the court Mrs. Hollingsworth and her daughter, who also is Farrell's sister-in-law, supplied him with keys to the plant and that the daughter went into the factory with him the night the money was stolen.

Authorities disclosed Monday that warrants charging Mrs. Hollingsworth and Mrs. Mary Jane Hollingsworth Farrell Miami, Fla., with housebreaking and grand larceny had been issued Monday.

Upon completion of his testimony, Farrell was sentenced to five years in prison, but there had been no agreement on a light sentence and the Farrel was described as having been cooperative with in-

First Lady Dines On Trout At Peaks Of Otter Lake

Peaks Of Otter, Va. (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, ending a two-day sightseeing tour of Virginia, ate a trout luncheon Wednesday beside a lake at this national park recreation spot and hailed it as a tourist spot.

She said her 700-mile trip by bus and plane had given her "a closeup view of what's available to the family tourist" in this state on which the President's wife, turning tourist herself, briefly focused attention.

Interior Secretary Stewart Udall, who accompanied her on the last half of the journey, saluted the state of Virginia as a model of effort for conservation and preservation of its historic sights.

Atop Sharp Top

He led a 40-member tour to the 3,875-foot summit of one of the three Peaks of Otter, Sharp Top Mountain, in this 4,000-acre recreation area Wednesday morning.

But the First Lady preferred to take a more leisurely route, making her way here later by plane and bus from Abingdon, where she spent Tuesday night.

LADY BIRD . . . takes whack at piece of hot iron held by blacksmith.

Drives Up At Noon

Mrs. Johnson, meanwhile, got a later start from Abingdon, and her chartered bus drove up to the Lodge here at noontime as Udall and his party of press looked down from the lofty pinnacle.

Udall, who has climbed Mt. Fujiyama in Japan and Kilimanjaro in Africa, launched this hike for a rather reluctant press troupe.

Mrs. Udall and Mrs. Robert S. McNamara, wife of the defense secretary and a vacation mountain climber, were the only ones of the nine cabinet wives in the First Lady's party who ventured the climb amid spitting rain. While Mrs. Johnson enjoyed her more leisurely pace, the climbers had a breathtaking view despite a hazy day in the Blue Ridge parkway area.

Gugas Resigns His Safety Job

Omaha — Omaha Safety Director Chris Gugas resigned Wednesday, effective May 24 the day new mayor A. V. Sorenson will take office.

Gugas, an appointee of Mayor James Dworak, had said he would resign if Sorenson defeated Dworak in the city election.

Many Rumors Fly In Dominican City

... SMUGGLED ARMS POSSIBLE

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Santiago, Dominican Republic — Rumors flew thick and fast in this second largest Dominican city early this week.

Santiago seemed haunted. Under a dawn to dusk curfew, imposed after army forces blasted Radio Norte and its violent rebel agitation out of operation, the city anxiously awaited reports from the capital, Santo Domingo, where a rebellion has brought bloodshed and massive U.S. intervention.

The reports from numerous sources which could not be checked said:

—There would be mass demonstrations dominated by Castroites and other Communists.

—The United States would send Marines to the north (but all signs indicate it won't.)

—There was a heavy traffic in smuggled arms in the north.

One heard stories of guns being smuggled in coffins, transported by hearses in which black-garbed "widows" wept. Guns were being carted northward under truckloads of bananas.

Some Substance

There may be some substance to these reports. To get to Santiago from Santo Domingo on the main road, I had to go through nine army-police checkpoints bristling with guns, and more checkpoints inside Santiago. Each automobile was stopped and examined closely. If it looked suspicious it would be searched inch by inch and its passengers frisked.

One hears all sorts of estimates of Communist-Castroite strength in Santiago and Puerto Plata, the nation's second port city. Some say the extreme left could raise a force of 5,000 young men and would do so if it had the arms for them. Others consider the Communist-Castroite strength relatively small, although all concede it has a potential for mischief.

Among the middle class and the businessmen there is worry that should elections be held as soon as a result of the mess in Santo Domingo, the extreme leftists would win.

They say time is needed to correct economic woes so that the moderates would have a better chance. The economic woes have been here, uncorrected, for many a year and forgotten until this crisis suddenly brought the prospect of a highly unpleasant future to the middle class.

"We Are Lucky"

"We are lucky," said one prosperous businessman. "There are plenty of Communists here in the north, but they have no outstanding leader who can rally support right now. What leaders they do have are in Santo Domingo, trying to bring about a situation which will blow up so that they can come back here and take advantage of it."

Perhaps they were lucky. It was touch and go in Santiago in the early days of the Santo Domingo crisis. Youngsters were parading about, after the U.S. intervention, with black and green Cuban flags. They shouted for arms. At a village near here, an effigy of Uncle Sam was burned.

At the Fortaleza, a army headquarters, a big crowd of youths demonstrated loudly for weapons and not a soldier was in sight. The only visible authority was a few traffic policemen.

Conformists

Many of these youngsters appeared to be revolutionary conformists. They march and shout because others do it and it is the accepted thing to do in such a situation. They would hardly be willing to battle the army with knives, sticks and machetes. When they failed to get guns, they turned away, disappointed at the lost opportunity to appear heroic.

No leader from the left, center or right has appeared to capture the imagination of these youth. The present crisis indicates, however, that there are those in the north who would like to channel the young men's frustrations and thirst for glory into destructive purposes.

In the north, the distribution of weapons to civilians is widely regarded as a tactic smacking of Fidel Castro's guerrilla warfare. It is suggested that because in a number of cities at the same moment crowds demanded arms—as they did and received arms in Santo Domingo—some sort of Castro-like organization is being attempted.

Confused And Angry

If there is such an attempt in progress, the raw material for it is men who are confused and angry. The word "constitution" means something to them, even though Juan Bosch, the first constitutionally elected president since 1924, does not seem to be widely popular.

Some in the north say they voted for Bosch because they disliked him less than they did the candidate of the Conservative National Civic Union.

Generally, those I talked with were angry at U.S. intervention as an affront to their ideas of the dignity and sovereignty of their country. The exceptions were older persons in the middle and upper classes who were relieved at the arrival of U.S. forces.

Pressures are growing and will continue to grow as long as the crisis in Santo Domingo persists. There is danger that in the nation outside Santo Domingo the payrolls for government workers, civil servants, army and police may not be met because of the paralysis in the capital.

These are factors, apparently, that could cause the fires ignited in the capital to spread to the rest of the nation.

Dominican Recognition Withdrawn

London (AP) — Britain has withdrawn diplomatic recognition from the Dominican Republic government, qualified sources reported Wednesday.

They said the British consider that neither the junta led by Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barreras nor the rebel regime led by Col. Francisco Caamano Deno can claim to be in effective control of the country.

This is London's normal standard of judging whether a regime is entitled to be recognized.

Both Imbert's junta and Caamano, whom the rebels have elected constitutional president, have applied to the British for recognition. A final British decision will depend upon the outcome of the present crisis in the republic.

Reds Find Wire Tap With Fake Embassy Threat

Oslo, Norway (AP) — An unusually heavy police guard around the U.S. embassy was touched off by a Communist ruse, informed sources said Wednesday. The guard has been heavy since Friday.

The sources said the Communists wanted to find out if the Norwegian intelligence service was tapping their telephones. So they sent each other messages about a purported demonstration outside the embassy.

Asked about the police guard, police adjutant Aage Kvaloy said: "I'm afraid I can't give you any information about this."

Last Defiant Act Killed Viet Red

FIVE MARINES DIE FIGHTING IN SONG BE ATTACK

By PETER ARNETT
Song Be, Viet Nam — They found the sergeant dead at dawn Tuesday, spread-eagled against a bloodied pantry door in the U.S. Army advisory group's mess hall. His upraised right hand clutched a penknife.

He was Sgt. Horace E. Young of Fayetteville, N.C., one of five Americans killed in the Viet Cong attack on this provincial capital 74 miles north of Saigon.

In his last defiant act he may have taken a Viet Cong with him. Bloodstains led to the jungles outside the defense perimeter. Young had bled to death in the dark.

The camp medic, Sgt. William D. Benning of Cincinnati, Ohio, died while trying to save a dozen wounded men from both their wounds and the Viet Cong. A Red suicide squad crept up on Benning while he worked in the mess hall and lobbed grenades.

Benning died instantly. So did two others lying on makeshift beds in the mess hall—1st Lt. Henry A. Deutsch of Greenville, S.C., and Sp. 4 Amos C. Watson of Wilson, N.C.

Fifth To Die

The fifth to die was Sgt. Johnnie K. Culbreath of Callison, S.C.

Hearing the grenades exploding, Culbreath leaped from his foxhole near the western edge of the American camp.

"They're going for the wounded," he shouted and ran toward the mess hall.

The guerrillas inside shot him through the door.

Park Escapes

The senior officer in the 37-man camp, Lt. Col. Alton E. Park of Columbus, Ga., escaped with a series of wounds. He was injured early in the attack when a 75mm shell smashed a wall to pieces.

A three-year veteran of the Vietnamese war, Park was carried to the mess hall. There he suffered more wounds when the Viet Cong tossed in their grenades.

That was not the end of Park's misery. Before being driven from the mess hall, which they occupied for nearly 20 minutes, the raiders searched Park's pockets and then shot him in the back.

Flagpole Sit Okay Except For Seagulls

Stockholm, Sweden (UPI)—"This would be a great job if it weren't for the seagulls."

So said Richard "Dixie" Blandy, a 62-year-old flagpole sitter from New Orleans Wednesday as he neared the end of the first month atop a 56-foot flagstaff in Stockholm's Groenalund (Green Grove) amusement park.

Blandy shimmied up the pole April 15 to try to break his own record of 79 days, set in Atlantic City, N.J., last year.

"This is my comeback," he said to a reporter who climbed up to find out how the weather was up there. "I'll try to stay up until the park closes Sept. 12. It would be a great new record—149 days."

The reporter met Blandy the hard way. Visitors to the park can pick up a telephone at the bottom of the flagpole and chat with him.

"I spend my time up here sleeping, looking at people down on the ground and chatting with the birds," he said. "I keep fit with gymnastics up here."

Any problems?

"In this job, I can't keep my wife happy," he said. "I know—I've had six. I've had 16 falls and I've broken almost every bone in my body, but this still would be a great job if it weren't for the seagulls driving me crazy."

SADDLE HORSE SHOW SLATED HERE SUNDAY

Members of Nebraska Horse Clubs will compete at the Lincoln Saddle Horse Club arena north of Pioneer's Park Sunday for ribbons and trophies in 15 classes.

A trophy and six place ribbons will be given in all classes except cutting.

Judges for the events are: B. Wilson, Emerson, cutting and western classes; Van Ketzler, Omaha, and Taylor Snow, Omaha, English classes.

Show secretary is Pat Martin of Lincoln.

EXILED MINH WOULD 'OBSTRUCT' VIET STABILITY ON RETURN

Saigon — Saigon authorities made it plain Wednesday they don't want Maj. Gen. Van (big) Minh, the former chief of state, back in the country. He was diplomatically exiled as a good-will ambassador to Asian neighbors last fall.

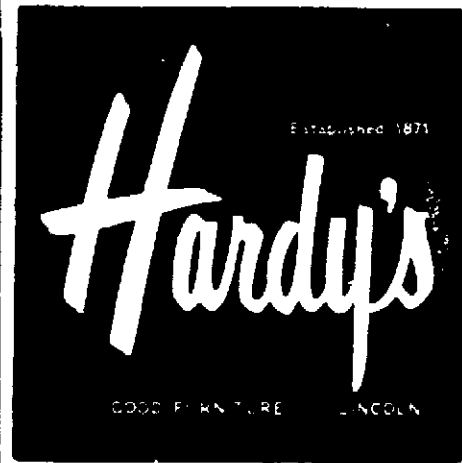

Minh's return would be "an obstruction to stability," Defense Minister Nguyen Van Thieu told newsmen.

Vietnamese troops had sealed off Saigon's airport for two hours and searched a Caravelle jet liner of Thailand's airline to make sure it wasn't carrying Minh back from exile in Thailand.

Informed sources said the air force commander, Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, was among members of the general staff strongly opposed to Minh's return.

Minh led the military coup of Nov. 1, 1963, in which President Ngo Dinh Diem was overthrown and slain.

Critics have expressed fear that he might try to upset Premier Phan Huy Quat's government.

... JUSTICE DOUGLAS TERMS PROPOSAL 'DANGEROUS'

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas labeled a proposed constitutional amendment changing the method of amendment itself as "dangerous" because it would eliminate any national forum to alert the people.

He said the amendment, now being considered in several states, would "make it mandatory for Congress to send out to the states" a proposed amendment to the U.S. Constitution if a certain percentage of states requested.

The Constitution now provides that on the application of two-thirds of state legislatures, Congress shall call a convention for proposing amendments. Such proposals then have to be ratified by three-fourths of the states.

Douglas, in Lincoln to address a University of Nebraska convocation, drew an audience which filled the NU Coliseum, in marked contrast to the poor turnout earlier in the week to hear the governors of Nebraska and Kansas.

Myths
Outlining the jurisdiction, operation and some highlights of the Supreme Court, he moved to "clear up myths circulating about the court."

It is a myth, he said, that in discrimination cases the "court makes exceptions and relies upon sociological reasons, not the law."

"Another myth generating from friends of Harvard," he said, "is that the court is overworked." That too, is not true, according to Douglas, who cited lighter workloads now than in previous years.

Court A Referee
Douglas, renowned author and world traveler, described the court as a "referee. And no federal system can survive without the referee."

"People have decided to live under the U.S. Constitution, and that makes Supreme Court decisions self-enforcing, whether the people like the decree or not," Douglas said.

He pointed out that he

thought the "greatest castigation of the court is its enforcement of the supremacy clause." The "supremacy clause" is the portion of Article VI which provides that the Constitution, laws and treaties of the federal government will be the supreme law of the land.

Declaring that the nation

NU To Receive Music Building Bids On May 27

The University of Nebraska announced it will receive bids May 27 on a proposed new Music Building.

Construction will start shortly after the bids are reviewed, Business Manager Carl Donaldson said.

The three-story structure will be located at 11th and R, immediately west of the present Music Building.

The 1963 Legislature allocated $1.5 million to begin construction of the building. The University has requested $802,000 from the current Legislature to complete the facility.

would be "far less advanced in the application of constitutional standards" if there were only state courts, Douglas praised the federal district courts in the South, saying that they "have done yeoman service on a racial issue."

Solvent

He added later that he thought people trying to get the Negro vote, once Negroes are registered, "will be the solvent of a lot of these problems."

Answering a student's question concerning the controversial "one man-one vote" decision, Douglas told the NU audience that he had voted with the majority because he "couldn't find any other standard" in the Constitution for apportionment.

He negated the argument that the U.S. Senate should likewise be judged unconstitutional for its composition. He noted that its establishment was an "explicit expressed compromise to take care of small states."

There is no such provision for state legislatures in the Constitution, Douglas said.

Omaha (U) —Mrs. Morris Trego of Sutherland, Neb., was named worthy grand matron of the Nebraska Grand Chapter, Order of Eastern Star Wednesday at the 30th annual convention of the order. She succeeds Mrs. Dale Keen of Brownville.

Jess O. Weyand of Hastings was named worthy grand patron, succeeding Dr. Donald J. Wilson of Omaha.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. Joe Morton, South Sioux City, associate grand matron; Robert Murphy, North Platte, associate grand patron; Mrs. Wilma Harms, Omaha, grand secretary; Mrs. George Borck, Lincoln, grand treasurer; Mrs. William Steen, Sargent, grand conductress; and Mrs. Harry Titus, Springfield, associate grand conductress.

The convention continues through Thursday.

Hastings, Fairfield Pair Going To 4-H Leadership Camp

Two Nebraska 4-H youths have been named to represent the state at Camp Minnawana, Stoney Lake, Mich., this summer.

They are Walter Baumann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Baumann of Hastings, and Katherine Lipovsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lipovsky of Fairfield.

A trip to the leadership camp is considered to be one of the highest honors in 4-H Club work in Nebraska.

Miss Lipovsky is presently attending St. Elizabeth's School of Nursing. She has been a 4-H member for seven years, having completed 11 courses and has been a leader for one year.

Baumann is a senior at Hastings High school, where he is vice-president of the Student Council. He has won the Old Reliable Hereford Judging Contest and the North Platte Grasslands Contest. He was third-fourth in judging at the Nebraska State Fair.

Cyclone Ravages E. Pakistan

Dacca, Pakistan (UPI) — A severe cyclone ravaged six districts of East Pakistan, leaving hundreds of thousands of people homeless and inflicting heavy crop damage. Communication systems between the districts were disrupted and no estimate of loss of life or injuries has been made.

In Dacca City, about 10,000 houses collapsed and an estimated 100,000 people were made homeless.

Hundreds of trees were uprooted and electric light poles blocked most of the roads.

The city of Chittagong was believed hard-hit.

New Group Tabs Shelton As Head

Hastings — Dr. Raymond O. Shelton of Omaha has been named president of the Nebraska Association of School Business Officials, which was formed at Hastings.

Vice president and President-elect is Merrill Penney, Hastings; Martin Dunklau, Omaha westside, secretary-treasurer; and Dr. Reed Schaefer, Lincoln national liaison representative.

Macmillan's Grandson Died Of Overdose Of Drugs, Drink—Coroner

Oxford, England (UPI) — A coroner said Wednesday Oxford undergraduate Joshua Macmillan, 20-year-old grandson of ex-Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, was a drug addict and his death last month was caused by an accidental overdose of narcotics and alcohol.

He said there may be other addicts among the students.

The body of young Macmillan, whose father, Maurice, is a former member of Parliament also, was found in his room at Oxford University April 25.

Coroner Thomas Gardiner ruled Macmillan died of an accidental overdose which he took "to enable him to forget his anxieties for a time. I don't think there is evidence to suggest he intended taking his life."

Both Joshua's father and the family physician, Dr. A. C. Somerville, testified that the youth told them of his addiction to drugs less than three months before his death. Somerville described Joshua as "somewhat unstable and the whole pattern of his existence likely to grope for facts in life generally."

Old Pro Halleck Says GOP Getting Over Defeat's Shock

Washington (AP)—One of the Republican Party's old pros, Charles A. Halleck, says the GOP is getting over the shock of last November's catastrophic defeat and is visibly on the way back.

Halleck, an Indiana congressman for 30 years and a part of the House Republican leadership for 18, avoided criticism of last year's presidential candidate, Barry Goldwater.

But he said his own concept for the party always has been forward-looking, and he indicated he thinks voters must be convinced that it is if the Republicans are to start their comeback with the 1966 congressional elections.

Relaxed
Halleck gave his views in a relaxed interview, one of his first since Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan defeated him for the minority leader's post last January.

Now, he said, he can talk about the mood of rank and file Republicans throughout the country because:

"I find I'm more in demand than before for speaking appearances—I have to turn down more than when I was leader."

"There was lots of shock at the results last November," Halleck said. "But now, I don't find people despondent. The rebuilding is well under way in my own district—and we were hit hard in Indiana—and generally I find the same sort of thing everywhere."

Demo Sharpies

Reminiscing about Goldwater's campaign, Halleck said Democratic sharp practices aggravated the GOP's troubles.

"There was a sort of whispering campaign that if you elected Barry Goldwater the whole farm program would be out the window overnight," he said. "That gave us all kinds of trouble in my part of the country. Started by Democrats? Of course it was."

Then, Halleck said, Goldwater never got a chance to cast a vote that would have helped overcome accusations that he was against the whole Social Security system of retirement for aging workers. Halleck said, "I seconded Goldwater's nomination—and I am certainly not apologizing for that. Under my state law, I was bound to go along with the Indiana delegation and certainly it was obvious he would be nominated."

Typical of Midwest

But the Indianan, who sometimes has been cited as typical of Midwestern Republican conservatism, recalled that in the past he had supported such moderate seekers of the Republican nomination as Wendell Wilkie, Thomas E. Dewey and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"I have always looked on the Republican position as a forward looking one," Halleck said. "Certain things have become part of our Republic and you just can't undo them."

Halleck said he thinks the Republican comeback must begin with next year's congressional elections. He recalled he had been in Congress only two years when the 1936 election reduced the Republican strength in the House to 88.

"We came back from that and we will again," he said.

BONN, ISRAELI RELATIONS WILL CAUSE ARAB BREAKS

Bonn (UPI) — West Germany and Israel will establish diplomatic relations. The announcement is expected to trigger a break in relations with West Germany by at least nine of the 13 members of the Arab League.

Iraq severed relations Wednesday, according to a Baghdad radio broadcast, in anticipation of the announcement of Israeli-West German relations.

The United Arab Republic, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Lebanon, Jordan, Algeria, Yemen and Sudan have indicated they will take the same action following the formal announcement Thursday.

Tunisia, Morocco and Libya are expected to maintain relations with Bonn, although ambassadors may be withdrawn and embassies left in charge of a minister of lower rank.

Kuwait does not have diplomatic representation in Bonn.

A government spokesman said a break in relations by Arab states in retaliation for Bonn's decision to normalize relations with Israel would be regretted and considered unjustified here.

The Israeli-German agreements are to be announced simultaneously in Bonn and Jerusalem (10 a.m. CST) Thursday, the spokesman said. A joint communique and an exchange of letters by Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and Israeli Premier Levi Eshkol will be released at that time.

For the first time, the spokesman said, the Bonn government also will explain in detail the secret provision of arms to Israel and the conversion of the undelivered balance to other goods.

Twelve years ago, West Germany signed an agreement to pay Israel $862 million in restitution. The Arabs protested the treaty was directed against them, but subsided when Bonn gave assurances the money would be used for peaceful purposes only.

By also refraining from establishing diplomatic relations with Israel, Bonn was able to retain relations with the Arabs.

The restitution agreement payment will be concluded by next March. As that deadline approached the German began to consider how relations with Israel were to be maintained after the mission administering the restitution agreement was withdrawn.

At that time, U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser invited East Germany's head of state and Communist Chief Walter Ulbricht, to pay a state visit to Egypt. Bonn considered this as an unfriendly act, and protested. But at the same time, it was revealed that for about two years, West Germany had been secretly supplying arms including tanks to Israel. Now it was the Arab turn to protest.

Safeway's Bid
For New Trial
Is Overruled

Lancaster District Judge Elmer Scheele Wednesday overruled a motion for a new trial in Safeway Stores Inc. bid for an off-sale beer license for an Omaha store.

Judge Scheele had upheld the decision of the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission denying Safeway's application on grounds that state law prohibits a firm from holding a beneficial interest in more than two retail alcoholic liquor licenses.

Safeway has appealed to the court on the contention that the law passed by the 1963 Legislature limiting retail off-sale beer licenses was unconstitutional.

Judge Scheele declared the law constitutional with the exception of one section which provides that a person or corporation holding more than 2% interest in other licenses is not entitled to hold licenses on their own.

Cancellation Forced

Tokyo (AP)—Communist sympathizers among the student body of an American missionary university in Japan have forced the school to cancel a speech by U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer.

Dr. Lux reiterated a point he stressed during the campaign, saying that he believes the School Board "should actively support the legislative proposal to repeal the DUIS Amendment and provide additional state funds for the public systems."

On the controversial campaign topic of secret meetings and unanimous votes of the school board Dr. Lux declined to comment "until I attend a meeting." He did say, "I feel more things should be discussed in open sessions, but what they are and when they should come up—I can't say yet until I have served on the board."

through the Lincoln public schools and Nebraska Wesleyan University together, receiving their degrees in 1950. Lux obtained his M.A. in political science and Ph.D. in education from NU.

Their four children are Linda, 14; David, 13; Barbara, 8, and Mike 5.

In addition to leadership activities in his church, Lux is also executive secretary of the Nebraska Association of Student Councils and is treasurer of the Nebraska History Teachers Association.

His "big concern is that the board constantly try to improve the program, working with teachers and administrators."

Should Listen

The School Board should be willing to listen to all recommendations, according to Lux, and it should give great weight to the proposals of the professional staff, hired by the board. He also feels the Citizens Advisory Council evaluation of the schools' guidance program "should be given careful consideration."

"But," he stressed, "the final decision on all school policies rests with the Board of Education."

Lux, supervisor of social science student teachers at University High School, by election time apparently managed to convince patrons questioning any possible conflict of interest as a School Board member. "If any conflict occurs," he said once, "I would certainly abstain from participating in that decision."

Besides his supervisory duties, Lux has also been an instructor in secondary education at the University of Nebraska since 1957. He taught at Auburn and Beatrice for six years before then.

"Simply a growing interest in the school system, its program and operation" motivated Dr. John Lux to file as a candidate for the Lincoln Board of Education and wage a successful campaign unseating an incumbent.

Lux was not the top vote-getter in either the primary or general election, but managed to keep his winning second place positions while incumbents Edward Copple and J. Arthur Danielson shuffled between first and third in the balloting.

A political newcomer, Lux garnered 8,418 votes in the May 4 election, only half as many as the 16,098 it took for him to place second in the primary.

Lux emphasized that he did not seek election because he disagreed with board actions nor did he have any immediate proposals he wanted to support.

"I am in favor of the present curriculum and policies of the school board. There are no major changes that need to be made," he said.

Disliked Change

Lux, however, disliked the proposal to elect board members by wards. As PTA president at Huntington Elementary School, Lux spoke out against area representation, urging qualified people from all parts of the city to run for office.

"A number of people urged me to run, and finally I decided to file as a candidate," he explained.

Legality Of Obscenity Bill Queried

Sen. Hal Bauer of Lincoln told the Legislature Wednesday there is question about the constitutionality of a bill to prohibit the sale of obscene literature to minors.

He said he has asked for an attorney general's opinion and successfully requested that the pending measure, LB515, be held up temporarily until the opinion is obtained.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff said the bill should be passed "whether it is unconstitutional or not." He said it attacks a "moral problem" on which the Legislature needs to take a position.

Sen. Henry F. Pedersen Jr. of Omaha objected to delaying movement of the bill. "If it makes those dealers (in obscene literature) squirm, so be it," he said.

Sen. Bauer said he was not attempting to kill the bill and would support any amendment to remedy the constitutional defect, if any there be. But he said he was "not in favor of passing an unconstitutional bill just to make somebody squirm."

Sen. Herb Nore of Genoa said pornography is a billion dollar business and the "pornography industry" can be expected to spend plenty to kill the bill.

Legislators decided to permit LB515 to rest on select file for one week until the attorney general's opinion is received.

The bill makes it unlawful to sell or display or furnish to persons under 18 years of age any comic book, magazine or other publication which is obscene "or tends to pervert morals." Omaha Sen. Edward R. Danner was the chief sponsor.

Sen. Danner also sought Wednesday to return to the Labor Committee a bill, LB787, which would prohibit discrimination in pay between men and women.

The bill had been killed by the Labor Committee 5-3 in belief its objectives could be attained by an amendment to LB656, a fair employment practices bill. But Sen. Danner said there now is question whether LB656 technically lends itself to such amendment, and questions also whether the Legislature will approve LB656.

His request that jurisdiction over LB787 be returned to the Labor Committee was laid over for action later.

Property Value Proposal Rapped By Tax Council

The Nebraska Tax Research Council said Wednesday a proposal that taxpayers and county assessors show in writing how they set property valuations is unworkable.

In its weekly legislative report, the council said LB87 would require the taxpayer and the assessor to place a dollar value on each of the factors used to arrive at property values for taxation purposes.

"We find it very difficult to believe that such a determination is workable," the council said.

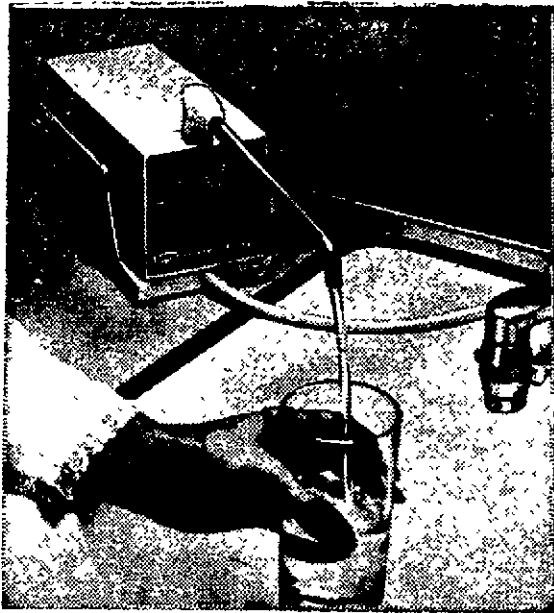

LB87 was introduced by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff. Originally, it sought to eliminate five of the six factors now used under law to determine the value of property.

Legislative action on the bill has been delayed at the request of Carpenter.

Monks May Be Involved

Vatican City (AP) — A monastery mystery that centered on a dead Roman and $64,000 worth of contraband cigarettes led a Vatican newspaper to express belief Wednesday that some Capuchin monks may be involved in a vast tobacco smuggling racket.

Police announced the body of Pierino Scali, 55, and the cigarettes were found Tuesday on the grounds of the Capuchin Order's St. Francis Monastery in Albano, near the summer residence of Pope Paul VI 15 miles south of Rome.

The Vatican daily L'Osservatore Romano complained that Italian newspapers gave the case too much attention, but added:

"Our Displeasure"
"We cannot hide our displeasure that this sorrowful affair calls into cause (gossip) the name of a religious order so meritable and esteemed . . . and exemplary in religious, civil and literary history."

"A mournful episode seems to have revealed the existence of vast tobacco smuggling in which some religious members of the Capuchin Order might be involved in some way."

It expressed a hope disconcerting elements in Italian newspapers accounts will be clarified by investigation, "revealing the true responsibility and the identity of the responsible and guilty persons."

Highlights of the case as reported by police:

Monks told investigators that three men pulled up in a truck and sought shelter in the monastery Monday night, but disappeared after a few hours.

Found Dead
Scali, one of the three, was found dead just inside the monastery grounds Tuesday morning.

Cases of contraband cigarettes had been piled in the courtyard.

The gate of the monastery was ripped out as if a vehicle had smashed its way through.

Outside was an injured companion of Scali, identified by the police as Ermenegoldi Foroni, 42, long sought on smuggling charges.

The third man and the truck were missing.

The tobacco business is a government-controlled monopoly in Italy and cigarette smuggling is a big business.

Italian authorities said they believed the cases found in the monastery courtyard came from Switzerland. They said Foroni had lived for some time in Lugano, Switzerland.

Rome newspapers noted that a former prior of the Albano monastery was transferred to Lugano about 18 months ago.

TW3 Draws Suit For Birth Control Joke On Woman

Cleveland (AP) — A $15 million suit was filed Wednesday in federal court here against the television show "That Was The Week That Was," on behalf of two Cleveland area persons and 300 other descendants of a Syracuse, N.Y. woman.

The suit charges that in a segment of the show it was stated that "Katherine Young, age 99, of Syracuse, N.Y., expired last week, leaving 14 children, 67 grandchildren, 172 great-grandchildren and 73 great-great-grandchildren. She should be given the booby prize of the week for birth control."

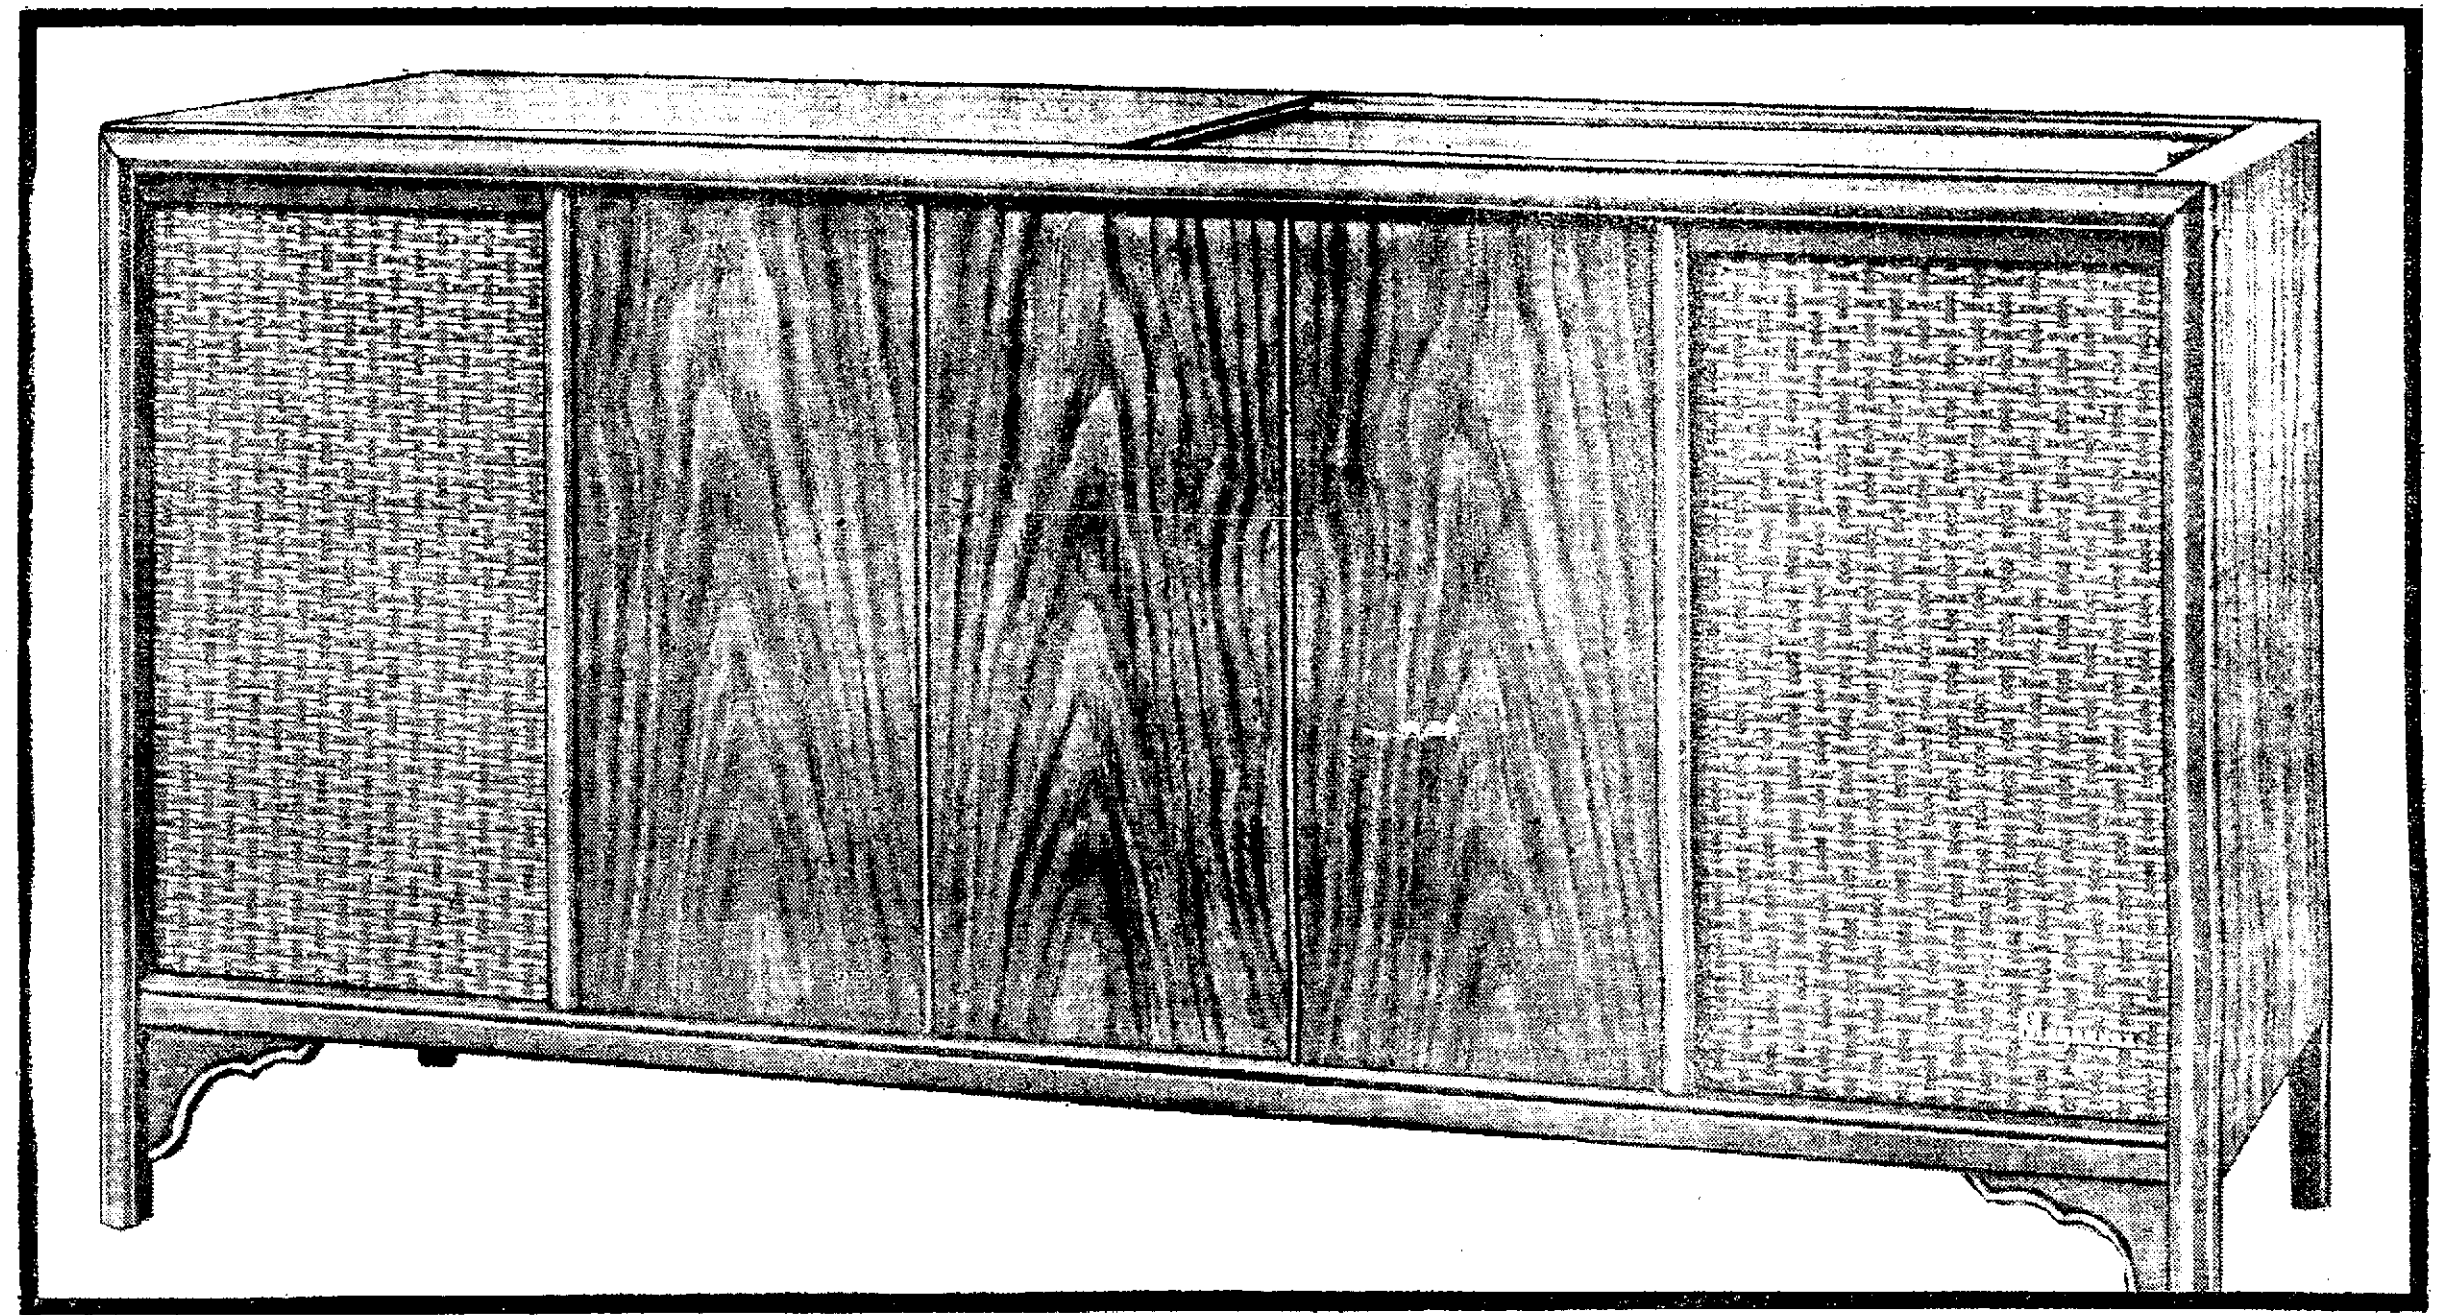

The suit seeks damages and a retraction and apology to all heirs and descendants of Mrs. Young.

Named defendants in the suit are the National Broadcasting Co.; Leland Hayward Productions, Inc.; Westinghouse Broadcasting Co.; Pat England; Phyllis Newman; Colgate-Palmolive Co.; P. Lorillard Co.; Carol Richards Cosmetics, and Writer David Frost.

The first Christmas party in the White House, Mrs. John Adams wrote, "was a frost. Twenty cords of wood were burned in 13 fireplaces in a futile effort to dry out the damp walls. The shivering guests stayed only briefly."

Sylvester, Vigil Speaker In Row

... OVER VIET NAM

Washington (AP)—A vigil led by a group of church people broke up late Wednesday in a rain-drenched row between the U.S. Capitol and the Pentagon. The group, which included a spokesman for the 200,000 U.S. troops in Vietnam, Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester.

The row was over whether the spokesman, Edward Snyder of the Friends Committee on National Legislation, violated a confidence in giving a public report of a session between Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and nine leaders of the interfaith demonstration.

Sylvester accused Snyder of giving a "one-sided report" and said "Only church people would do what Snyder did."

Snyder, however, said he had learned Snyder defended the accuracy of his report.

The demonstration had gone on for a high. Members of the group had ranged themselves along three sides of the Pentagon after marching across the Potomac from downtown Washington and arriving at midday.

The estimated 800 to 1,000 joining in the "Interfaith Vigil on Viet Nam" also sent telegrams to President Johnson, North Viet Nam President Ho Chi Minh and South Vietnamese Premier Phan Huy Quat urging talks to halt the violence.

Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, former president of the National Council of Churches, met with newsmen outside McNamara's Pentagon office after 75 minutes of give-and-take between the defense secretary and the nine Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish leaders.

Negotiation Table

He spoke in general terms, saying his group told McNamara the bombing of North Viet Nam was pushing the negotiation table further away. Dahlberg and others in the delegation praised McNamara for being "forthright" and for "dealing" with them.

Six hours later, the demonstrators broke up their vigil. It was reported that Snyder mounted a bench to read from his notes of the meeting to the rear guard of the demonstrators gathered around him.

Sylvester hurried out of the Pentagon to listen.

Snyder said McNamara told the delegation the United States was "not preparing to attack Communist China unless they attack the United States."

'Back In 5 Years'

He quoted McNamara as saying there would be little to gain in knocking out Red China's atomic complex because "they'd be right back in five years."

Snyder said McNamara told them that the bombing of China's atomic installation would not knock the knowledge out of the minds of the Chinese scientists.

However, Snyder said McNamara complained that the Communists won't talk.

Snyder said that McNamara "dwelt at some length" on the extent of Viet Cong terror and that he showed them confidential figures on casualties.

Shortly afterward, Sylvester—aware there was a reporter present—protested Snyder's disclosure of details. He accused Snyder and his group of "going back on your word" to treat the details as confidential.

Officials of the group challenged Sylvester and insisted they had been told by Joseph Califano, special assistant to McNamara, that they could say anything they liked about the meeting.

GOP Hopes House Drive Nets Seats

Washington (AP)—The House Republican leadership hopes to build a $2-million campaign chest in an effort to increase its membership in the next Congress.

House GOP leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, in discussing the drive Wednesday, said about $250,000 already has been raised. He said the funds would be restricted for use by selected Republican candidates who try to topple incumbent Democrats in 1966.

The current House is controlled by the Democrats 294 to 140 with one vacancy.

Launched In January

Ford at an informal press luncheon given by Rep. Donald Rumsfeld, R-Ill., said the campaign was launched last January. He said the money collected so far came from fund-raising affairs at 13 cities.

He said plans call for about 40 cities to be visited over the next two years.

"Our goal is $1 million this year and $1 million the next," Ford said.

Ford said funds for Republican House members who seek reelection to the next Congress would continue to come in part from the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee. He said GOP gubernatorial and senatorial candidates would not share in the special fund.

100 Districts

The GOP leader said there are about 100 districts involved where it is felt Republican candidates have a chance of winning election in 1966. He didn't identify them, saying this would come later.

Specialists already are at work, Ford said, in an effort to draw up guidelines for ideal Republican candidates in various districts, including qualities needed by such an office seeker. He said no names would be involved in this work.

Ford said he feels there is a good chance for boosting the party's House membership substantially. He contended that trips to various parts of the country have shown a resentment toward Congress "for not having any guts, for being a rubber stamp for the White House."

Central Area Scout Drive Ends June 28

McCook — Roy Lenwell, general chairman of the capital fund campaign of the Tri-Trials Council, Boy Scouts of America, is reminding the campaign volunteers that the deadline for the financial drive is June 28.

A third of the goal of $75,000 has been turned in so far. The money is being used for a dining hall and other facilities at the Boy Scout camp at Opal Springs.

Lenwell said work on the dining hall has been completed. A new swimming pool, 30 by 75 feet, is now being constructed and will be ready for the summer camp season the second week in June.

Aquatic Facility
Farmers Lake will be used as an aquatic facility when the work is completed. Plans call for a health lodge, administration building, nature lodge and handicraft shelter, camp site equipment, trading post and equipment storage site.

There will also be an archery and a chapel program area.

Ed Petersen of McCook, head of the official family division for the campaign, said the money is starting to come into his office. Petersen has three district chairmen working with him to make that part of the drive a success. They are Cloyd Clark of Elmwood, Tomahawk District; Leonard Mills, North Platte; Buffalo Bill district, and Duane Root, Imperial Sunset Trails District.

The Tri-Trials Council takes in 19 counties in the central and southwest parts of Nebraska. The headquarters are at North Platte.

A North Platte man, Les Weil, is general vice chairman for the fund campaign. John T. Harris Sr., McCook, is honorary chairman.

Chairmen
Division chairmen in addition to Petersen, are Kirk Mendenhall, North Platte, for nature gifts; Chris Rosenberg, North Platte, organizations; Jordan Kokjer, North Platte, primary gifts.

The president of the Tri-Trials Council, Charles Gebus, Holdrege, is representing the executive board in the campaign. Lenwell urged division chairmen to check with their volunteers in regard to progress so the drive can be ended on schedule June 28.

Highway Accident Kills Kimball Man

Kimball — Ralph Dillon, 74, of Kimball, was killed Wednesday night when struck by a car five miles north of Kimball on Highway 71.

State Trooper John Oliver said the car was driven by Otis B. Faubion, 45, of Denver.

Oliver said Dillon parked his pickup truck alongside the highway, walked across the pavement to talk to a man on a tractor and walked into the path of the car when he started back.

Plan For 46th, Vine Shopping Center Okayed

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The City-County Planning Commission Wednesday recommended approval of measures which will allow the Stuart Investment Co. to develop land in the vicinity of 46th and Vine for the eventual location of a $1.25 million shopping center.

The commission approved a change of zone from A-2 single family to G local business for property owned by the company located south of Vine between 45th extended and 46th.

The company proposes to vacate 46th for 900 feet south of Vine and has agreed to dedicate right-of-way for a new location of 46th 350 feet west.

No recommendation was made on this proposal.

Special Permits
Also approved were special permits allowing the company to construct a radio station transmitter in a location west of the present radio tower, and to construct and operate a parking lot on the site of the present tower, south of Vine and east of 45th.

Attorney Charles Thone and Dick Chapin, executive vice president of Stuart Investment Co., said that the shopping center would probably front on Vine, and that construction could start within a year.

The center, to be called the "K Mart Plaza," will be a 100,000 square foot building to be located on approximately 450,000 square feet of land.

Thone said that the center, one of many being built throughout the country, is a division of the S. S. Kresge Co.

The commission recommended approval with minor reservations of the six-year, $36 million capital improvements budget to be considered by the City Council.

Commission members agreed with the planning staff that expenditures for City Hall improvements and related items, programmed for fiscal 1965-66, are no longer necessary because the City-County building has been approved.

The expenditures total $196,670, and include a self-operating elevator and the installation of a City Hall temperature control system.

The commission expressed dismay at the long delay in the construction of the Northeast Diagonal and urged "that the diagonal be advanced in priority as rapidly as possible."

Other business:
Change of zone from R-2 residential to K light industry, requested by Norden Laboratories, Inc., for property located east of the intersection of the SVA Highway and Cornhusker Highway, approved.
Change of zone from R-20 family dwelling to G local business, requested by Thomas A. Tichet for property at Folsom and Park, denied.
An amendment to the zoning ordinance, claiming building line districts, approved.
An amendment to the zoning ordinance to permit parking in required front yard areas, denied.
Final plats were approved for Harry East, 58th and Planners, and Salt Valley View, south on U.S. 77 west side. The Salt Valley View plat was approved subject to changing street names and the development of a water supply.
Preliminary and final plats were approved for Constable's Lakeside 1st addition, 56th and Van Dorn.

8 JUBILARIAN PRIESTS OFFER 'FIRST' CONCELEBRATED MASS

Bishop James V. Casey, who is celebrating the 25th anniversary of his ordination, and seven other jubilarian priests offered the first concelebrated Mass in the history of the Lincoln diocese Wednesday morning at the Cathedral of the Risen Christ.

One of the priests, Msgr. Ferdinand G. Mock of Beatrice is observing his golden jubilee this year.

Others, all celebrating silver jubilees were Msgr. Alphonse J. Lisko, V. F. of David City; Father Edward C. Tuckek with the Catholic Social Service Bureau in Lincoln; Father Conrad J. Marrama of Centerville; Father Francis J. McCook, O.M.I., of McCook; Father Timothy Mulvey, O.M.I., of Sacred Heart and St. Ann's parishes; Father George Hoinzen, C.P.S., of Nebraska City.

Before the Mass was celebrated, three deceased bishops of the Lincoln Diocese were transferred to the new Bishops' Mortuary Chapel at the new cathedral.

They were the first bishop, Thomas Bonacum, the third bishop, Charles J. O'Reilly and the last bishop, Louis B. Kucera.

Aged, Shut-In Calling Service Unit Expanding

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

In an effort to familiarize elderly and shut-in persons with the Reassurance Service of Lincolnland, the Reassurance Service Committee has expanded its scope of activities and approved a survey project with Lincoln youths.

The service, telephone communication to guard against sudden illness and accidents going unnoticed for elderly person or those living alone, now provides contact for 10 Lincolns in a "double check" system.

Seven callers—persons receiving the free service—telephone a designated receiver—a volunteer blind person working through the Nebraska Department of Services or the Visually Impaired—each day at stipulated hours.

The Telephone Answering Service functions as a check-in agency to which receivers report either that they have received all their calls or that some caller has not responded.

If necessary, the answering service starts checking on unresponding receivers or callers. When no neighbors or relatives, according to information previously furnished by the callers, can provide clues, the Police Department is notified.

Lincoln police also have information to check on the callers and receivers and have worked out a key system in order to enter homes of those using the program in case of possible emergencies.

The Reassurance Service, composed of some 30 dues-paying interested individuals and representatives of Lincoln organizations, has voted to liberalize the criteria for participation.

The stipulation of "living alone" will be relaxed if the service is desired even when there is more than one, committee chairman Mrs. Bruce Hazen announced.

Reassurance Service's problem is not one of being overloaded, but of making contact with area residents who need and want the "peace of mind" daily telephone call, Mr. Hazen explained.

Several projects are now under way to introduce the service to those in whose interest it was originally established.

Mrs. Hazen, at the suggestion of a student nurse attending a recent meeting, is planning to speak to the city's to make them aware of its existence. Nurses, especially student nurses who seem to become better acquainted with their patients, it was pointed out, can pass along information about the service.

Considered Brochures advertising the telephone communication to be placed at the Chamber of Commerce, doctor's offices, hospitals and other related agencies are also being considered by the committee.

Another Lincoln organization, the United Church Women, (UCW), has appointed a committee to study the need for the service among the various churches which belong to the Protestant group.

The UCW program would be separate from Reassurance Service, according to Mrs. Hazen, as each church would provide its own receivers for callers in that church. However, the program would be the same as the Reassurance Service's in the telephone Answering Service and Police Department connections.

Lincoln youths, seeking a continuing work project, also may be utilized by the Reassurance Service. Mrs. C. M. Stewart, committee secretary, proposed that the youth take a survey in the city to discover the need for the Reassurance Service and make such people aware of its existence.

At the same time the youths could be making their own survey about elderly and shut-in folks needing help with errands, chores and other duties which the youth organization members might perform for them.

Hancock St. Sewer Bids Are Rejected

Mayor Dean Petersen has signed an executive order rejecting bids received for a 15-inch intercepting sewer in Hancock St., McBride to Cleveland.

The mayor's action came after the public works department said that the bids received were almost 30% in excess of the city engineer's estimate.

The apparent low bidder on the project was Dobson Bros. Construction Co., at $18,880. Three bids were received.

Misile Chevrolet was the apparent low bidder, at $1,704. Others bidding were: International, $1,711.79; DeBrown, $1,725 and O'Shea-Rogers, $1,734.

Car-Cycle Crash Injures Youth; Condition 'Good'

Thomas Siefken, 18, of 3440 Anaheim Drive was in good condition at Providence Hospital Wednesday night following a motorcycle accident at Normal and South.

Police said Siefken lost control of his motorcycle when he attempted to stop behind another car as he was eastbound on South approaching the automatic signal at Normal and South.

Siefken's cycle apparently slipped on loose gravel and hit the rear of a vehicle driven by Dennis W. Voth, 17, of 1435 Marion. Voth had just stopped for the automatic signal, police said, when the cycle struck the car.

BLUE STAMPS, TOO!

Gates Triple-Spray Sprinkler

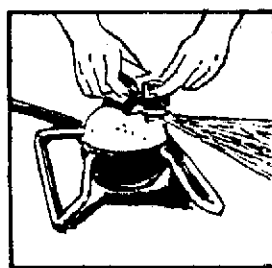

Choose from three spray patterns with a turn of the turret for uniform distribution. You can have a healthier lawn by watering evenly. Triple-Spray provides uniform distribution of water through entire spray pattern. Half circle, at normal pressure, covers a 20-foot radius. Rectangular covers 5 x 30-foot strip. Square covers a 25 x 25-foot area. The Gates is easy to handle and move. Light weight and compact. Wide skid base permits dragging over rough surfaces. Stays upright while being moved.

GATES RAIN DIAL SPRINKLER!

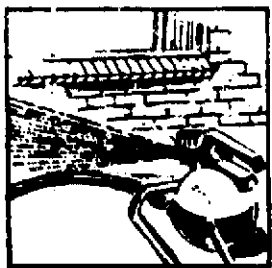

Throws low flat spray virtually unaffected by wind... can be adjusted without turning off water

Slow rotation permits adjusting size of coverage area... or moving sprinkler... without turning off water. Easy, dial-the-size adjustment. No back spray. Can be used as hand sprinkler for watering flower beds, planters or window boxes.

Uniform distribution. Beaker test prove water is distributed evenly throughout entire area of coverage. Avoids over watering in spots, under watering in others. Operates on pressure as low as 15 psi... on slopes up to 35 degrees.

Low flat spray pattern lets you water under picture windows, clotheslines, trees. Because drops are large and close to the ground... spray is virtually unaffected by even stiff winds... far less water evaporation.

How does your garden grow? With a Gates Sprinkler. Covers an area up to 80 feet in diameter. Entirely different in design and principal. Gates rotating Rain Dial Sprinkler produces a flat pattern of soaking raindrops distributed evenly over a circular area adjustable from 20 to 80 feet in diameter with a turn of the dial. With the Rain Dial you can put water where it's needed... quickly, evenly and with less waste and less evaporation. Keeps water off picture windows, clotheslines and your neighbors. No small holes to clog, no springs or gears to rust or wear out. Simple design, highest quality materials and long-lasting construction assures years of dependable service. Keep your lawn greener, healthier with the Gates Rain Dial Sprinkler.

Britain Gets Funds To Bolster Position

Washington (AP) — Great Britain drew on the International Monetary Fund Wednesday for $1.4 billion in currencies of other nations to bolster her monetary position.

The IMF, announcing the transaction, said Britain will use the funds "mainly to repay bilateral credit facilities utilized in recent months and also to reinforce the United Kingdom's reserve position."

The United States and nine other countries came to Britain's aid late last year during international pressure on British currency, providing some $3 billion to bolster the pound sterling.

The drawing announced Wednesday will be in 11 currencies.

The IMF said it would use three methods to finance the British drawing.

—The equivalent of $475 million will come from its present holdings of currencies.

—Some $400 million in gold will be sold.

—About $525 million in currencies will be borrowed from eight members of the fund under an arrangement which covers special situations.

The transaction will raise Britain's outstanding drawings from the fund to $2,387,000,000 and it will increase the IMF holdings of sterling to 197% of the British quota.

The IMF said the "first priority" of the British government in the economic field is the restoration of balance in Great Britain's external accounts. The fund said "the deficit in 1965 is expected to be sharply reduced from last year's figure of 475 million pounds (about $2.1 billion), and balance is expected to be restored in the course of 1966."

POPPY PINNED ON LBJ

Mrs. Walter Wild Andrews of Jackson, Ala., pins the first of 20 million poppies on President Johnson's coat lapel. The ceremony was held in opening the annual money-raising drive of the American Legion Auxiliary which Mrs. Andrews heads. The money benefits disabled veterans.

Woman Stockholder Cries For Democracy

Washington (UPI) — Mrs. Evelyn Y. Davis of New York, fresh from her encounter with management of the Communications Satellite Corp., said Wednesday she will carry her campaign for "stockholder democracy" to Thursday's meeting of the Xerox Corp. in Rochester, N.Y.

Mrs. Davis, whose persistent questioning helped throw Tuesday's first annual COMSAT meeting into an uproar, said she has introduced a resolution for an end to all all charitable contributions by Xerox.

"Charity begins at home with the common stockholders," she told UPI.

Companies should pass the money along to shareholders in the form of dividends and then let the shareholders give to the charities of their own choice, she said.

Demand Voice

Tuesday's COMSAT meeting was only a few minutes old when Mrs. Davis and two other minority stockholders demanded to be heard. Board Chairman Leo D. Welch told them they would have a chance to speak later.

Soon a shouting match was under way. Welch signalled to guards. Mrs. Davis sat down, but the two other dissident shareholders were ejected from the meeting.

Mrs. Davis said she'll be back next year and may introduce a resolution calling for mandatory retirement of COMSAT directors by the age 70 or 72. But Wednesday she was looking ahead to Thursday's meeting of Xerox, a meeting of Consolidated Edison next Monday, a meeting of General Aniline and of U.S. Lines in June.

'Freedom of Speech'

What seemed to concern Mrs. Davis more than anything was what she called management's current campaign "to suppress freedom of speech" at stockholder meetings.

She said companies try to choke off debate, hold their annual meetings in "far out-of-the-way places" and schedule them for the same day as other company meetings.

Eventually, she predicted, the Securities & Exchange Commission (SEC) would have to step in and "take jurisdiction" over shareholder meetings in order to insure "democracy."

Mrs. Davis, who started attending company meetings in 1959, owns from 5 to 100 shares each in 60 corporations. She found time to attend 54 annual meetings last year.

Terrorist Bombs U.S. Consul Car

Cordoba, Argentina (AP) — Terrorists set off a home-made explosive device under U.S. Consul Temple Wannamaker's car here.

The explosion before dawn slightly damaged the car. Nobody was reported injured. The car was parked on a street adjoining a residential district plaza here.

Moslem Sect Ends Festival With Blood-Drenched March

Karachi (UPI) — Ten thousand blood-drenched flagellants of the Shia Moslem sect marched through the streets of Karachi Wednesday to mark the slaying of the Caliph Imam Hussain in the Iraqi desert 13 centuries ago.

The march ended a 10-day Moslem festival which celebrates the beginning of Muharram, the first month of the Moslem calendar.

Among the marchers were many men and young boys, bare to the waist, (who flailed themselves with knives attached to chains while the rest chanted in cadence.)

None of the flagellants were believed to have been injured seriously although many marched drenched with blood oozing from multiple wounds inflicted during the day-long ritual.

Tens of thousands lined the streets to watch the procession.

The flagellation is intended to symbolize the agony and violence Caliph Hussain suffered on the banks of the Euphrates River where he was killed in 640.

School Stall Move Won By Wallace

Montgomery, Ala. (UPI)—The Alabama senate gave Gov. George C. Wallace a victory Wednesday by approving a controversial resolution urging schools to delay meeting federal desegregation demands.

The resolution passed by a 24-19 vote after a group of senators opposing the measures gave up a six-day filibuster. Administration forces beat down several last minute attempts to change the wording of the resolution, which recommended that school boards await a court test and action by Southern governors before complying with government requirements.

Impassioned Plea
The senate then adjourned until Friday, when the house returns from a 10-day vacation.

Sen. Bob Gilchrist made a final impassioned plea for defeat of the resolution, which he said was "dragging Alabama down the well of disaster."

"This is not good for Alabama and we have told you so with tears in our eyes," Gilchrist shouted minutes before the final vote.

Gilchrist announced the decision to abandon the filibuster.

"We have been placed in the position of stopping the business of the state of Alabama while we tried to bring reason to this senate," Gilchrist said.

Strong Pressure
The filibuster group reportedly was under strong pressure from special interest groups, house members and pro-administration state agencies to allow other business to come before the senate.

Sen. Pete Mathews, Wallace's floor leader, denounced as "outlandish accusations" charges repeated during the debate that Wallace's racial policies had speeded up desegregation.

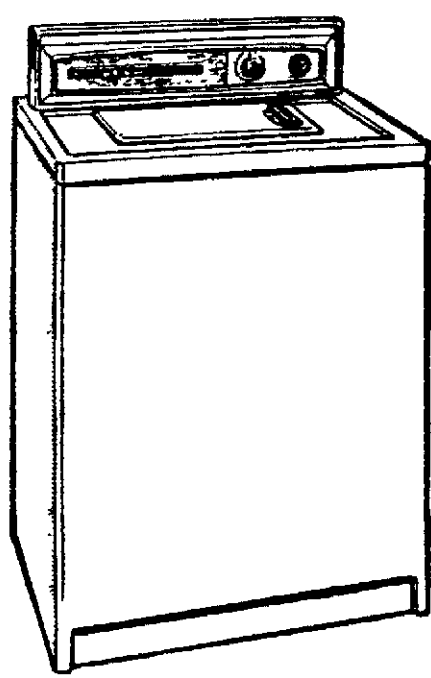

"The people don't buy the fact George Wallace is bringing integration to Alabama," Mathews said. "This is ridiculous and ludicrous."

"Never has any man fought harder or any group fought harder to preserve the schools of this state."

Zanzibar One-Party State Now

Dar Es Salaam, Tanzania (UPI)—Zanzibar, in a fresh move toward political amalgamation with Tanganyika, became a one-party state Wednesday.

A law enacted by the Zanzibar government Tuesday night made the ruling Afro-Shirazi Party the "supreme authority" in the East African spice islands of Pemba and Zanzibar.

The law also abolished the Afro-Shirazi Youth and Women's Leagues which, with the Zanzibar trade unions, will be administered as special departments of the one-party government.

A party spokesman said today its central committee "now takes precedence over the government of Zanzibar."

He said the party aims at "opposing capitalism, colonialism, neo-colonialism" and at "perpetuating the revolutionary spirit and spreading the philosophy of socialism in Africa."

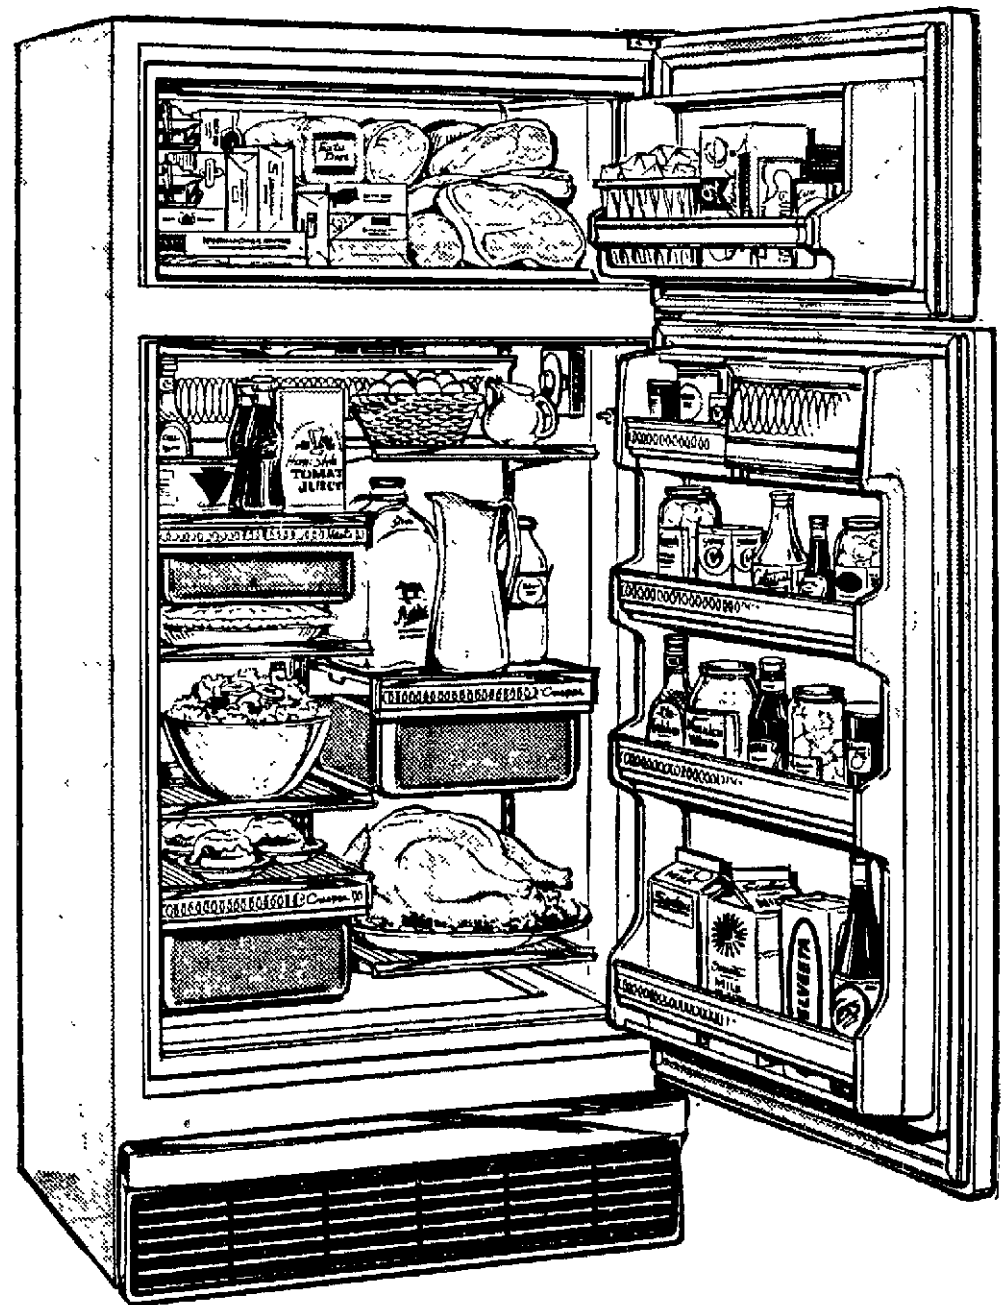

Vice President Sheik Abeid Karume of Tanzania remains at the head of the party and all members of the "Revolutionary Council" get seats on the new central committee.

On the mainland the Tanganyika African National Union (Tanu) called a special conference of delegates to a meeting June 1 to adopt changes in the party's constitution to conform with the proposed mainland one-party state that is to come into existence after the Tanganyika general elections later this year.

(In London, Derek Bryce, the Tanzania minister of health who is on a brief visit to Britain, explained the action in Zanzibar as a further step towards the unity of the political parties of Zanzibar and Tanganyika.)

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY I have a friend who is 26, attractive and extremely well-educated. She confided that she agreed to marry a 39-year-old, foreign-born man who wants to stay in this country longer than he otherwise could, for business reasons. In return for this favor, the man has promised to give my friend a trip to Paris. After this foreigner finishes his business in this country, they plan to get a quick Mexican divorce. Neither this man nor my girl friend has ever been married. I have tried to talk her out of it, but she insists on going through with it. How can I bring her to her sense? Sign me.

"MITZI": You probably can't but try, anyway. This isn't a marriage, it's a business deal. And I'm not so sure it's legal. Encourage your friend to "confide" in a lawyer. She might discover (with his help) the cheapest way to get a trip to Paris is to buy her own ticket.

DEAR ABBY: I would like your opinion of a school-teacher who keeps the whole class after school for 30 minutes because one of the children did something wrong and she didn't know which one it was. Several mothers (including myself) had to sit outside in their cars and wait for their children to come out. My daughter had an appointment with an eye doctor, and because she was late she was put at the bottom of the list and had to wait an hour and a half to see him. I think this teacher ought to be fired. Don't use my name if you use this letter. She would take it out on my daughter.

UP IN ARMS
DEAR UP: I don't subscribe to punishing the innocent in order to make sure the guilty gets what's coming to him. Talk to the teacher first and get her side of it.

DEAR ABBY I don't want to go on living, but taking one's life is a sin against God, so what can I do. My husband was very sick and thought he was going to die. He called me to his bedside and said he didn't want to die with anything on his conscience, so he made a full confession of his sins to me. I told him he didn't have to, but he did, anyway. He confessed that over three years ago he had been unfaithful to me with my youngest sister, and before that with my dearest friend. There were others, too, but these hurt me the most. Well, he didn't die, and now I cannot look my dear sister in the face. And I don't care to see my best friend again. They know something is wrong but I can't bring myself to tell them. How can I get over this terrible hurt, Abby?

HEARTSICK
DEAR HEARTSICK: Don't permit yourself to dwell on these morbid thoughts. Try to think constructively and positively, and pray for strength, compassion and the grace to forgive. You can bury the past under interests of the present and hopes for the future—if you really try.

Opening lead—king of hearts.

Let's say that you are defending a hand and your partner chooses a line of defense you don't understand. It is probably best in such case to go along with partner because he may know something about the hand that you don't know. In any event, it might be best to humor him even if only for morale purposes.

Of course, there is always the possibility that partner does not know what he is doing and is chucking the defense. Even so, it may be wise to cooperate on the off-chance that he does know what he's doing. Certainly the last thing you should do is lose your temper because of a play partner makes, and then compound that supposed error with one of your own.

Getting down to cases, suppose you are East, defending against two spades on the bidding shown. Your illustrious partner cashes the A-K-Q of hearts, declarer following suit to all of them.

At this point you may be thinking that a diamond shift would probably be best, but that you can stand a club lead also, if partner thinks that is best.

But then, to your surprise, partner plays the nine of hearts, declarer discarding a club from dummy. West's play may strike you as strange, since it is seldom wise to present declarer with a ruff and discard, but you should take the play in stride and try to figure out why partner made this extraordinary play.

It would not be right to discard on the nine of hearts, which you might be inclined to do if you gave no thought to the reason for partner's play.

No, the proper thing to do is ruff the nine of hearts with the queen of spades because partner apparently wants you to ruff high in order to help promote his trump holding. If you do, the contract is defeated; if you don't, South makes the contract.

Color Excites, Warps, Changes Lives

Color can do many things — it excites your emotions, warps your sense of time and distance, changes your blood pressure or even cause headaches.

Do you know, also, that the color in your living room has a direct effect on how happy your marriage is?

Color preferences actually reveal the kind of a person you are, says Helen Becker, University of Nebraska health education specialist.

"Scientists have found that color plays a big part in our daily lives—it has a direct effect on our happiness and well-being, she adds. Colors having the greatest effect are red, green and blue.

Red predominating in a room has a tendency to make time appear to move much more slowly than it actually does. It also produces a feeling of restlessness and excites one's emotions.

Green slows down muscular responses and is conducive to reflective thinking.

Tests have shown that in a blue room time tends to slip by faster than a person realizes.

Studies at Brandeis University, Waltham, Massachusetts proved that the color of walls has a direct effect on happy home life. Identical living rooms were constructed—one with dull gray walls and the other room with pleasant color. The drab room produced such reactions as monotony, fatigue and hostility. On the other hand, the living room pleasantly decorated produced feelings of comfort, pleasure and enjoyment.

"People who dislike color or simply fail to respond to it are likely to be repressed individuals, who keep a tight rein on their emotions and are fearful of letting themselves go. Failure to respond to color seldom goes hand in hand with a well-adjusted personality," the health education specialist points out.

Women are more affected by color than men, she adds. But for everyone colors can mean the difference between a sense of happiness or of depression. The most emotionally-depressing colors are shades of black and gray. The colors of nature are the most uplifting.

TRAVEL

takes news spotlight in suburbia

These mornings you may be waking up to the cheerful sounds of birds singing. And as you watch them fly about in a carefree manner how often haven't you wished you had their wings and carefree life so that a trip to any spot in the world could be taken without much thought.

Judging from the Park Manor area news, this morning, there are several individuals who are enjoying jaunts to all parts of the world.

There are of course many local events of interest, but we can't help daydreaming a little. So we will take you on an activity tour and tell you about the fun and exciting trips which involve suburban residents.

PARK MANOR

It took only a matter of a few hours on Monday, for Mrs. A. H. Forke to reach Europe via jet—now this is something pretty little birds could never do. So, maybe we can stop thinking about their easy life. But, back to Europe and the activities which will surround our traveling Mrs. Forke. Her three-week tour of the Continent will include a thorough look at England, Switzerland, Germany, Italy, France and Austria. Mrs. Forke's vacation follows a similar trip taken by her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Forke just last Fall.

As Mrs. Forke headed eastward, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Gruhn were returning from a southwestern city, Phoenix, Ariz., was the exact destination for the couple, a week ago yesterday. While in Phoenix, Mr. and Mrs. Gruhn were guests of Mrs. Gruhn's sister and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Hill. But the trip west was not made just to visit relatives—there also was a wedding to attend which was of particular interest to Mrs. Gruhn. On Saturday, her sister, Miss Mary Suponsick, became the bride of Jim Gallup at a morning ceremony which was followed by a reception at the bride's home. Joining his three sisters for a short reunion at the wedding was Gene Suponsick of Omaha.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Berger will enter Lincoln from the south on Saturday when they arrive for a visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fleming. The visit will be a short one, for it will be back home to Abilene, Kan. late on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd MacDougall had business and pleasure in mind as they boarded a jet headed for New York City, on Wednesday. We are sure, Mr. and Mrs. MacDougall's five-day venture in New York City will top any bird's eye view.

Local affairs are keeping Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Baxter and their family busy these days. Last Monday, the Lincoln chapter of DeMolay held its annual installation of officers for which Mr. and Mrs. Baxter's son, Charles, was the installing officer.

The responsibilities were awarded to Charles as he was the out-going Master Counselor. Ronald Lee Colin was named his successor. Following the ceremonies at the Scottish Rite Temple, a reception was held in the basement with approximately 200 in attendance.

When Tuesday night rolled around, the feminine affairs got into swing. The Jobs Daughter's Mothers Club met at the home of Mrs. Dean Pettett for dessert and a business meeting. It was here that Mrs. Baxter and her daughter, Nancy, were assigned to business. Following the club's meeting a program was given by eight girls from Bethel 45. Supervising the style show was the club's program chairman, Mrs. Baxter. The show was entitled, "Funster Style Show," and Nancy Baxter was one of the lovely models who paraded before the mothers.

WEDGEWOOD MANOR

The welcome mats are out for two families who have moved to new residences in Wedgewood Manor—one family is previously unknown to the area and the other movers have been around a while but are residing on a different street.

The incomers are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Balderston, now of 1120 Driftwood Dr. The old-timers in the Wedgewood area are Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Wright, who now live on Lakewood Drive but formerly resided at 310 Wedgewood Drive.

PLANS wedding in september

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Aldrup make announcement this morning of the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen Anne, to George Arthur Salstrand, III, son of Mrs. George A. Salstrand, Jr., and the late Mr. Salstrand.

The wedding is planned for Sept. 18. Both Miss Aldrup and her fiancé are former students at the University of Nebraska.

Club Tour

Tuesday was meeting day for the 14 members of the Sharon Extension Club and their guest, Mrs. Albert Strauss, who met for coffee at the home of Mrs. Elmer Barnhill. The group toured a local radio station followed by luncheon. During the afternoon hours, the club toured new homes in the Lincoln area and were the guests of Mrs. Mark Hedges and Mrs. Alvah Markussen, both of whom recently moved into new homes.

TALK

around the town

We like what we have been hearing lately. We like the gleam we have seen in an eye or two—and we like the germ of an idea that has tremendous possibilities.

We're talking about a group of University of Nebraska alumni, most of them Kosmet Klub performers at one time or another, who could and perhaps, if urged, would do something exciting for Nebraska's Centennial.

The gleam was first in the eye of W. Joyce Ayres, but the germ multiplied quickly as Mr. Ayres unfolded his idea.

We all know that there are many illustrious alumni who, during their campus career, played important and unimportant roles in Kosmet Klub productions and who doubtless would be willing to cooperate. Mr. Ayres believes that William McCleery of New York City, just might write a script which would portray the life of Nebraska. He believes that Willard Chenoweth just MIGHT consent to doing some of the music and that Johnny Carson could be persuaded to add his bit to the production. There also are those who could write lyrics, and those who would be expert at choreography—All that is missing at the moment is a tremendous push in the right direction—

And what a dramatic way for the University of Nebraska to make its entrance into the Nebraska Centennial activities!

Now on to other things—

We heard that for Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gessner (Nancy Stebbins) and their three sons, Gene, Charles and Michael, Wednesday was moving day. Mr. and Mrs. Gessner and their family have been residing in Omaha, but their new address is Iowa City, Iowa.

Mention of Omaha brings to mind the canape party and dinner for which Mr. and Mrs. Dean Kratz will be host and hostess at their home in Omaha on May 22. We called the role on Lincoln guests, and so far have the names of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Knudsen and Mr. and Mrs. Don Bergquist, Jr.

On Tuesday, May 25 the members of the Lincoln Junior League board, will join the newly elected board members for a morning meeting at the Lincoln Country Club. At the meeting the new current board will be retired, and the reins will be taken over by the new board.

Following the meeting there will be a 12 o'clock luncheon.

Guests Honored

Special guests of the University of Nebraska Faculty Women's Club on Wednesday were members of the board of the College of Medicine Faculty Women of Omaha, and two University of Nebraska coeds who are the recipients of the organization's annual scholarships.

Mrs. Thomas M. McCalla, new president of the group, is pictured (at left) with several of the guests following the club's brunch at the Nebraska Center.

From the left are scholarship winners, Miss Carolyn Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Morgan of Lincoln, and Miss Mona Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Morris of Grand Island; Mrs. Eugene C. Reed, club scholarship chairman; and Mrs. John D. Coe of Omaha, vice president of the College of Medicine Faculty Women.

MAY

church ceremony Madam Chairman

The chancel of Trinity Lutheran Church at Grand Island, was decorated with bouquets of green Majestic daisies and white gladioli on Saturday afternoon, May 8, for the wedding of Miss Peggy Lake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis L. Lake of Grand Island, and Charles R. Dreesen, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Dreesen. The service was solemnized at 4 o'clock by the Rev. W. E. Koenig of Calvary Lutheran Church of Lincoln. Victor Peter, organist, played the wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Peter, who was the vocal soloist.

Wearing daytime frocks of mint green cyrstallette were Miss Betty Lake, as the maid of honor; and the bridesmaids, Miss Virginia Lake, Grand Island; and Mrs. Robert Dreesen. Each carried two, long-stemmed red roses.

David Edwards served as best man, and seating the guests were Larry Graves and Jack Lake, Grand Island; Robert Dreesen, Gary Hakel and Mel Finke.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of rose-embroidered white satin. A Sabrina neckline accented the long-sleeved basque, and the slim lines of the skirt were emphasized by a panel train extending to chapel length. A cluster of silk petals held her bouffant veil of illusion, and she carried a lace-covered Bible ornamented with pink orchids and red sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Dreesen will make their home in Lincoln, at 521 No. 70th, following a wedding trip to Texas and Indiana.

League of Women Voters, study units, 9:30 o'clock meetings.

AFTERNOON

DK, PEO, 12:45 o'clock at the home of M.s. Dale Schilling, 2940 So. 24th.

Camp Fire Girls, program committee, 1:30 o'clock, office; Horizon Club cabinet, 4 o'clock, office.

EVENING

Lincoln YWCA, beginning flower arranging class, 7 o'clock.

Lincoln B, PW Club, 6 o'clock dinner, YWCA.

Omicron Nu active and alumnae chapters, dinner, 6 o'clock at Student Union, following initiation of new active members.

Open House Planned

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Polard will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary on Sunday, May 16, when they will be honored by their family at an open house, to be held at their home in Nehawka. Their friends and relatives are asked to call between the hours of 2 o'clock and 5 o'clock, without further invitation.

Conference

Leaving Lincoln last weekend for Lake Mohenk, N. Y., were Mrs. Ray M. Knapp, executive director, and Mrs. Robert Plum, district director and camp director of the Lincoln Council of Comp Fire Girls, who will attend a national conference of the organization this week.

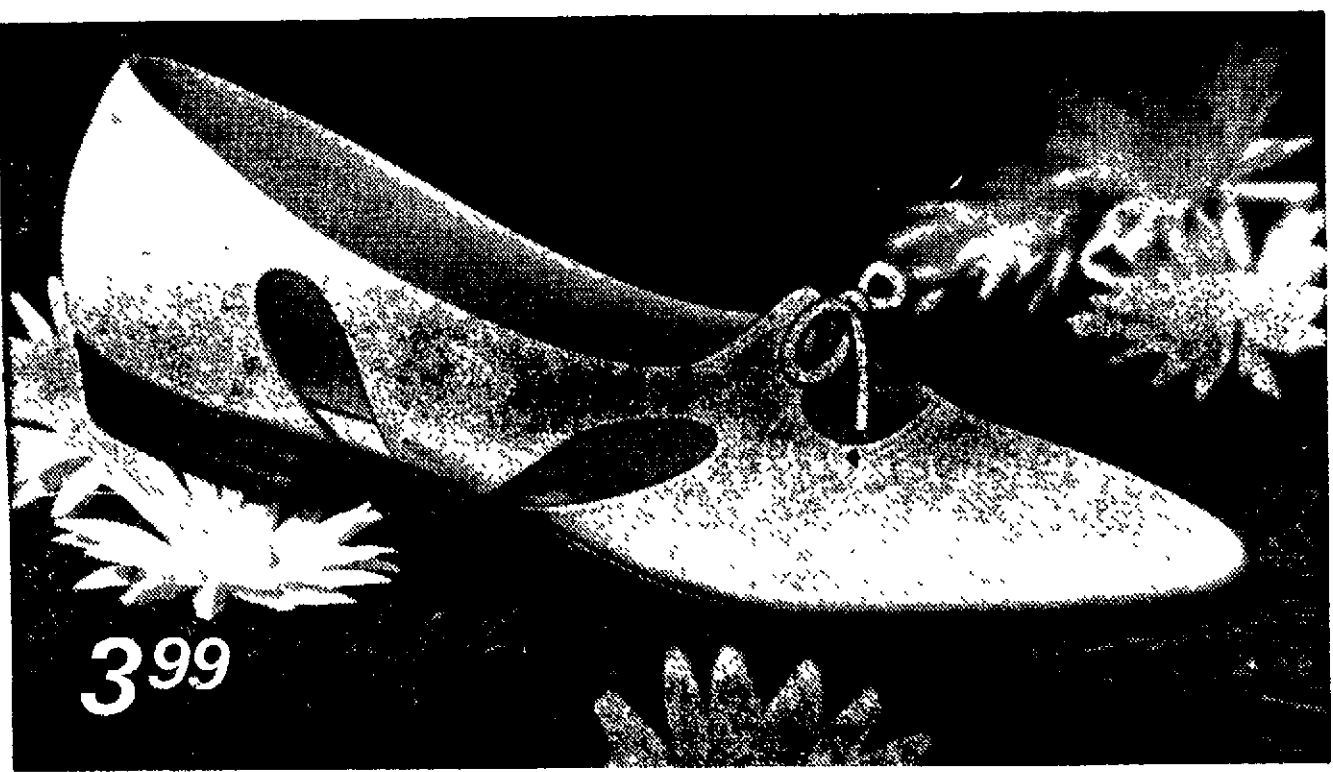

Special guests of the Lincoln chapters of Epsilon Sigma Alpha, business women's sorority, at the organization's recent Founders Day banquet were Mrs. Carol Rathmann, state president, and Mrs. Tom Tallman, state corresponding secretary, both of Omaha.

Honored at the banquet with 10-year service awards were Miss Edith Williams and Mrs. William Rewerts, and a gift was presented to Mrs. Bill Elias, president of the sorority's city council. Also receiving awards were Miss Delma Lefler, Mrs. Ed Wagner and Mrs. John Waldron, and jewel pins were presented to Mrs. Ron Ringland and Mrs. Ron Wills.

Chairman for the banquet was Mrs. E. Keith Thompson.

FOOD

sesame seed crust adds zest

"Now why didn't I think of that?" Thousands of homemakers must have kicked themselves across the kitchen, several years ago, when they heard of the lucky contestant who won $25,000 by adding a generous quantity of sesame seed to pie crust. Quick, easy, delicious!

The following recipe can serve as a guide to quantity of seed to use. This isn't a critical measurement, however, since a little extra sesame never detracts from the success of the dish.

Naturally, you'll want to develop best flavor by toasting the seeds if you plan to stir them into a batter or over tossed salad greens, over steamed rice, through mashed potatoes, etc.

CHOCOLATE PIE WITH

SESAME SEED CRUST

- 3 envelopes no-melt chocolate
- 2 1/4 cups milk
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
- 4 tablespoons cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 large egg yolks
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- 8-inch baked pie shell made with 2 tablespoons sesame seed
- 2 tablespoons toasted sesame seed

In the top of double boiler, over boiling water, empty envelopes of chocolate, gradually stir in 2 cups of milk. In a bowl mix 1/2 cup sugar and salt, cinnamon, cloves and cornstarch. Blend in 1/4 cup of milk. Add mixture to heated chocolate-milk, continue to stir and cook for 6 minutes, or until very thick. Cover and continue cooking 12 minutes. Stir twice. Blend in butter or margarine. Beat egg yolks lightly and blend with remaining 1/2 cup sugar. Blend in a little of the hot mixture and stir into remaining hot filling. Cook over hot water (not boiling) 10 minutes or until very thick. Remove from heat and add pure vanilla extract. Cool. Turn into cold sesame seed pie shell. (If commercial pie shell is purchased, sprinkle and lightly press in sesame seed before baking.) Top with chocolate curls and toasted sesame seed before serving.

YIELD: One 8-inch pie

LATE

May means planting of bulbs

Spring brings tulips, daffodils, crocuses and a host of little bulbs. Some are the late tulips and Spanish squibs, nearly to Memorial Day. But late May also means it's bulb-planting season for summer blooming types which are dug up again in the fall.

Best known are the gladiolus, strong-growing, dependable and colorful. Place them in clumps in the shrub or perennial border as well as rows for cutting. In the large ones are too tall, switch to the miniatures which are just the right size for indoor decorations. Plant the large ones 5 to 6 inches deep and at least 6 inches apart, the smaller kinds 1 to 2 inches less.

For a real show, try the new dwarf (3 to 4 inches). They now come in attractive pastel colors and beside groups in the garden they are also dramatic in urns, tubs or planters on porch or patio.

For plenty of cut flowers or bedding effects give dwarf daffodils a try. They are surprisingly prolific.

If your soil isn't too dry, few flowers will cause the comment that gladiolus will "three-petal" with a broad cup-shaped depression in the center. Besides the bright oranges, yellows, and reds these cups are spotted like a leopard. Plant 4 inches deep and about 5 apart.

GARDEN SCENT

If fragrance is what you want, you can't afford to neglect the tuberose. One spike can scent the whole of a small garden, particularly in the evening.

Then there are the ismenees, glorious, white, lily-like flowers with intriguing "tail-like" structures reaching out beyond. They, too, are often strongly fragrant and can bloom in as little as 3 weeks when planted late in the spring.

These are but a few of the many bulbs which anyone can plant in the spring to bloom in summer and fall. Dig them all after frost has killed the tops, dry off and store in a cool, dry, well-ventilated cellar or veranda. Dig and store them in a box or bag, one bulb in another year of colorful blooms.

WOMEN

find a way

Washington (P)—Capitol hill gals are practicing to give footpads a pain in the neck.

They have started a weekly class in judo—the art of self-defense.

The idea: to give a rude surprise to the purse-snatchers, muggers and worse who, in Washington as in some other major cities, make it hazardous for a lady to walk out of an evening.

Under the sponsorship of the congressional secretaries club, the first class was held Wednesday night. Capt. William Meghan, Marine Corps authority on judo, was there. So was his petite blonde wife. Both of them wore white kimonos and black sashes. Their feet were bare.

While the secretaries watched open-mouthed, Mrs. William Meghan flipped her fierce-looking husband over her shoulder. But then, she had been trained by her husband, so perhaps he must get part of the credit.

The classes are held in the House caucus room, under the sponsorship of Rep. G. Robert Watkins of Delaware County, Pennsylvania.

Watkins' secretary, Mrs. Virginia Hudgins, was asked today just what she had learned in the class so far.

"Perhaps I shouldn't give away our secrets," she said. "But if a guy grabs your arm, you give him a good belt in the stomach with your knee. Then you clobber him on the back of the neck with the side of your palm.

"There are also other valuable knacks—like grinding your heel into his instep, and gouging his eye."

London (M)—For Marilyn Potts, the recipe for getting a husband is roast lamb, potatoes and peas.

Marilyn, who is 18, met Paul Reed, 25. Two months ago they decided to wed.

Marilyn's mother, Mrs. Clara Potts, objected. She said her daughter was too young, and furthermore she could cook only eggs and bacon.

Paul's mother, Mrs. Lydia Reed, suggested that Marilyn cook her a Sunday dinner.

Marilyn agreed and appealed to the court for permission to marry Paul if she passed the cooking test. In England, a person under 21 can marry without parental permission only if a court approves.

Marilyn served roast lamb, peas and potatoes Sunday.

"The meal was delicious," said Mrs. Reed. "She certainly proved to me that she could cook and look after my son."

Yesterday the magistrates gave Marilyn permission to wed Paul. The ceremony is set for July. Marilyn's mother made no comment.

Your Feet Are Longer

'Way back in the early 1800's cobblers in America measured shoes in terms of barleycorns—not the elixer, but one-third of an inch between sizes. The same ancient graduation procedure is used nowadays for sizing shoes, but it's the feet that have changed. According to the president of a shoe manufacturing company to the president of a shoe "in two decades the average American woman's feet have grown two full sizes... from 5 1/2 to 7 1/2."

Attributing the increase in the average size to a combination of diet and exercise, Mr. Manowitz pointed out that the increase is apparently worldwide. "Even in the Orient where tiny feet were formerly prized, we've seen the longer-foot result because of an enriched diet and sports activity. These two factors, plus a worldwide increased popularity of the greater-comfort leisure shoes, we feel are responsible for the development of longer feet among women of all nations."

Gallantly, however, the gentleman hastened to add, "But, with this foot size increase go the dividends of better health, better teeth, better muscle tone and better bone structure. We may have longer feet, but we also have better looks."

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. They read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. Golf's Big Two Renew Rivalry

... FRESH INCENTIVE LOOMS

New Orleans — Masters champion Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer renew their golf rivalry in the $100,000 New Orleans Open Thursday with a fresh incentive—the Roosevelt Cup.

This handsome trophy, carrying with it a $5,000 prize, was set up a year ago to be presented to the player with the best total score for the New Orleans Open plus the three major U.S. events—the Masters, PGA and Open.

The tournament here is the last leg in the series which includes the 1964 Open and PGA and the 1965 Masters, and it comes up with Nicklaus and Palmer head-to-head in front.

Unless there is a double collapse, one of them appears certain to take off the first Gold Cup.

Nicklaus and Palmer are tied for the lead with a total score of 840 for the three tournament played, with Bobby Nichols, the PGA champion, and Mason Rudolph, defending champion here, 18 shots back at 858.

Big Jack took a leave from the tour last week to get acquainted with a new heir, his third, while Palmer experienced a letdown at the ramplugged Colonial after his first victory of the year in the Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas.

Monbouquette Fires 6-Hitter

... GETS FOURTH WIN

By The Associated Press

The shipping New York Yankees dropped their eighth game in the last 11 starts Wednesday night as Boston's Bill Monbouquette fired a masterful six-hitter for a 2-0 Red Sox victory.

Shortstop Eddie Bressoud rifled a home run in the fifth inning and Lee Thomas singled home an insurance in the sixth as Monbouquette won his fourth game against two losses.

Willie Horton of Detroit and Ron Santo of the Cubs each had a homer and two singles as the Tigers ripped Washington 5-2 and Chicago belted San Francisco 7-3.

Horton drove in two runs and scored another as Fred Gladdings and Mickey Lolich turned in sharp relief jobs saving it for Detroit starter Joe Spina.

Santo's two-run homer started the Giants' Juan March to his third loss against five victories. Four San Francisco errors helped the Cubs' cause.

Sammv Ellis won his fifth straight for Cincinnati as the Reds nipped Philadelphia 4-3. Jim O'Toole preserved the victory, pitching out of a bases loaded jam in the bottom of the ninth. Tommy Harper's triple keyed the two-run Reds' seventh which broke a 2-2 tie.

Home runs by Joe Torre and Felipe Alou helped Milwaukee to a 5-4 victory over Pittsburgh. Torre's homer with the bases empty tied the game in the fourth and then Alou connected in the seventh after pitcher Denny Lemaster had reached first on a missed third strike.

Rookie Paul Blair's leadoff homer ignited a four-run first inning as Baltimore defeated Cleveland 4-2. The Indians had nicked Dave McNally for two runs in the first but the Oriole left-hander permitted just two hits the rest of the way, earning his first victory.

Bobby Klaus, filling in for the injured Ron Hunt at second base, drove in the winning run with a seventh inning double as the New York Mets nipped St. Louis 2-1. Jack Fisher went the route, hurling a five-hitter for the victory.

Don Buford and Pete Ward tagged home runs as Chicago whipped Kansas City 7-4 in the first game of a two-night doubleheader. Dick Green had a grand slam for the Athletics.

Ward's run scoring double helped the White Sox complete the sweep with a 6-4 victory in the second game. A two-run Chicago sixth put the Sox ahead to stay with singles by Buford and Floyd Robinson delivering the runs.

400 State Track Meet Spots At Stake In Qualifying Today

... WESLEYAN HOSTS CLASS A DISTRICT

Thursday's Class A district which will include the four Lincoln schools, Nebraska City, Beatrice, Fairbury and Hastings.

Headliners in the Capital City meet include Southeast's Dick Stem, who threatens the district record of 12-10 in the pole vault, and Lincoln High's weight ace John Spaedt and John Walters.

The Lincoln meet, which has sessions scheduled for 2:30 and 7 p.m., also brings together some of the state's top broad jumpers. Less than five inches separate such standouts as Larry Carlson of Beatrice, Randy Jones and Mike Hammer of Fairbury and Neal Keyser of North-east.

Milers Jack Weyers of Sterling and Dan Trout of Lewis-ton head the entry list in the Class C district scheduled at Peru State.

Grant opens its bid for a repeat state title in the Class C district at Gothenburg, while powerful Bayard is qualifying at Alliance.

-OPENS TODAY- NWU Hosts Baseball Tournament

Nebraska Wesleyan baseball coach Irv Peterson refuses to pick a favorite in the two-day NWU tournament which starts Thursday at Sherman Field, but he drops a hint or two that his own Plainsmen would have to be considered top contenders.

When we've got all our team here, we're pretty tough," he concedes.

Wesleyan is 8-9 for the year after a doubleheader sweep over Offutt Air Base Monday. Most of its trouble has been caused by inconsistent hitting, a problem which looked smaller in view of the 11-hit attack during Wesleyan's 12-0 victory in the second game against Offutt.

"It was the best hitting we've had all year," Peterson says.

He also got some stellar pitching from Charley Morrison and Jerry Schmutte in the 3-2 first-game victory and from freshman John Laird, who tossed a two-hitter in the second. But this is nothing new for the Plainsmen.

"Our pitching has been good all year," Peterson points out. "We actually haven't had a poorly-itched ball game."

Peterson has at least five proven mound performers on whom he can call during the tournament. After Morrison, the ace of the staff who will start Thursday's opener against Creighton at 1:30 p.m., there is Laird, Schmutte, Ron Wegner and Gene Anderson.

If the Plainsmen win their first game Thursday they must play again at 8:30 p.m. against the winner of the 3:30 Dana-Concordia battle. Either Laird or Schmutte will go in that one, saving the other two for a Friday contest.

Hastings plays Midland in Thursday's other first-round game, the winner moving diponship contest at 8:30 p.m. Losers-bracket play is at 1, 3:30 and 6 p.m. Friday.

"It looks like all the teams are pretty even," says Peterson.

Wesleyan has played only Hastings, with which it split a doubleheader, and Dana, which it defeated.

Lincoln High Drops 5-3 Tilt

Two Pulitzer Prize Music Jurors Quit

... ELLINGTON NOT CITED

New York (AP)—Two members of a Pulitzer Prize music jury, whose recommendation that Duke Ellington be cited was turned down by the Pulitzer advisory board, resigned from the jury Wednesday.

The third member of the music jury said he did not resign because it would have been academic—he was only named to serve this year.

The resignations of Winthrop Sargeant, music critic of the New Yorker magazine, and Robert Eyer, music critic of the Long Island newspaper Newsday, were in a joint letter to the advisory board.

The two and Thomas Sherman, music critic of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, had voted not to recommend a Pulitzer Prize for a specific musical work appearing last year.

Instead, they recommended a special citation to the noted Negro composer of jazz and serious music, whose real name is Edward K. Ellington, for his work over the years.

In their resignation letter Sargeant and Eyer said they proposed the citation because, in their opinion, Ellington had "made an incalculable contribution to contemporary music."

They said the advisory board had seen "fit to ignore this recommendation . . . without any plausible explanation either to us, to Mr. Ellington, or to the public."

"We find our position, therefore, untenable," the two critics wrote, adding that they also found "intolerable" a published attack on the jury by an anonymous member of the advisory board.

ART AWARD OF $500 GOES TO LINCOLNITE

John Gary Brown of Lincoln won the $500 first prize at the 15th Mid-American Art Exhibition at the Nelson Gallery in Kansas City, Mo., for his oil painting, "Clutch Number 1."

Art work by eight other Nebraskans were in the exhibition which includes 89 works by artists from Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Colorado and New Mexico, as well as Nebraska.

The exhibition opens May 14 and closes June 13.

Other Nebraskans with paintings at the exhibition include: David Lee Bean of Crete; Daniel J. Christensen of North Platte; Ken Showell of Omaha; and Richard Trickey of Lincoln.

Also on exhibition is a drawing by Sharon Behrends of Lincoln, an etching by Thomas H. Majeski of Omaha and sculpture by Sidney Buchanan and Richard Stejskal, both of Omaha.

Shastri Thanks Russia For Support

Moscow (AP)—Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India thanked the Soviet Union Wednesday for what he called its large role in making the Indian policy of nonalignment possible.

Shastri arrived in Moscow for a seven-day visit. He had a one-hour meeting with Premier Alexei Kosygin in the Kremlin soon after his jet plane arrived from New Delhi.

At a Kremlin banquet later, Shastri said in a prepared speech that Indian nonalignment had been subject to "serious reassures and threats to our independence and territorial integrity . . ."

"The ability to pursue this policy has to a large measure been due to the understanding and support that your government has given," Shastri said.

He also expressed appreciation for Soviet support in the United Nations. This apparently referred to Soviet backing in India's dispute with Pakistan over Kashmir, although Shastri did not mention Kashmir.

Neither did he mention the recent fighting with Pakistan in the Rann of Kutch, on which Moscow has taken a neutral stand.

HUAC Steps Up Klan Investigation

Washington (AP)—The House Un-American Activities Committee is stepping up the tempo of its investigation into the Ku Klux Klan. It may question Klan leaders at preparatory, closed hearings in two weeks, sources said Wednesday.

They also said committee investigators have reported the Klan is active in at least six Southern states and that while the FBI has infiltrated the Klan, there is evidence the Klan has infiltrated some Southern law enforcement agencies.

Getting the investigation into a higher gear, Chairman Edwin E. Willis D-La., appointed a subcommittee this week to conduct the inquiry into what President Johnson called "the hooded society of bigots."

Willis declined however, to make public the names of the five-member subcommittee.

The purpose of the closed sessions, they added, is to let prospective witnesses present their case to the subcommittee in private and for the subcommittee to determine whether their testimony would be useful in the investigation.

On Monday, sources disclosed, Willis' investigators reported to the full committee at a secret session on what they learned in a five-week sweep through the South.

LBJ's 9 A.M. Talk May Dwell On Asia

Washington (AP)—President Johnson is expected to emphasize American-financed economic development programs in South Viet Nam and other parts of Southeast Asia in a television-radio address Thursday.

Johnson will speak at 9 a. m. CST to 70 members of the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists and their wives. The major television and radio networks plan live broadcasts.

Although Johnson probably will talk about American aid efforts throughout the world, he is expected to stress such programs in Viet Nam.

Presumably he is anxious to emphasize that American involvement in that country is not solely military in character.

There is a possibility too, that Johnson may have more to say about the Southeast Asia development program which he proposed in a Viet Nam policy speech last month.

Johnson said then he would ask Congress to authorize an American investment of $1 billion in such a program if it can be developed cooperatively.

The President has held open the possibility of some American aid for North Viet Nam if the war in the south is settled.

Eugene Black, former president of the World Bank, is studying the potentials for an area development program.

Press Secretary George E. Reedy said he did not think Black had yet submitted a finished report on the subject.

'West Should Protect India Without Pacts'

New Delhi (UPI)—A retired commander-in-chief of the Indian army said Wednesday the Western powers should guarantee India protection from nuclear attack without obligations "to toe the line with them in any military pacts."

Gen. J. M. Cariappa, in an article in the newspaper Indian Express, said such a guarantee would not in any way prejudice Indian sovereignty. "We can still remain nonaligned if we think we must," he said.

Cariappa also said India should not "embarrass our very great friend Russia" by asking for Soviet help against a threat from Communist China.

"We know Russia and China are brothers as has been frequently declared by many Russian leaders in the past," the general said.

His article was published as Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri arrived in Moscow for an official eight-day visit.

Cariappa said it would take seven years and $4.2 billion plans. India's economy could not support the entire cost, he said.

He said India was looking toward Russia "to help build our defense forces against China or against any of her satellites."

He said the Communist Chinese have "fifth columnists and pro-China elements" at work in India.

"How can we with any stretch of the imagination lull our people into a feeling of smug safety by saying that we can defend our country with our own resources?" he asked.

Exams For State Veterans Hiring Post Planned

Gov. Frank Morrison said Wednesday he has been advised that all applicants filing for the position of state veterans employment representative will be examined by the Civil Service Commission.

He said the commission would then make recommendations to William Daugherty, director of state division of employment, and himself.

Italian Destroyer Visit

La Spezia, Italy (AP)—Italy's slickest destroyer, the Intrepido, has sailed under command of Capt. Franco Marengo to carry out Terrier-type missile firing tests off the Virginia coast and for a cruise in South American waters. She is due at Norfolk next midweek.

April Gain
In Storage
Sets Mark

... Highest Since '60

Omaha (P) — The largest April gain in water storage behind Missouri River main stem dams was recorded last month, Maj. Gen. George H. Walker, Missouri River Division Engineer, reported.

In the monthly operations report from the Missouri River Reservoir Control Center, Gen. Walker said the storage gain was 2,837,000 acre-feet more than five times the total storage in Gavins Point Reservoir.

This was almost one million acre feet greater than the previous high of 1,918,000 acre feet recorded in April, 1960. Total storage behind the six main dams at the end of April was 47,833,000 acre feet, equal to about two years flow of the Missouri River at Sioux City.

Coincident with this gain in storage was a 20% increase in generation of electricity at the six power plants.

Gen. Walker said much of the flow for navigation, which was delayed slightly by tributary flooding problems, came from these tributary streams and releases from Gavins Point Dam for navigation needs did not exceed 20,000 cubic feet per second until after mid-month.

Ak Scholarships
Received By 17
Ag Extensionists

Seventeen University of Nebraska Agricultural Extension Service staff members have been awarded scholarships by the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben, in support of graduate work applying toward advanced degrees.

The scholarships are valued at $150 each.

Dr. Duane Loewenstein, state Extension leader of studies and training, listed the following recipients, their present position at the University, and the institution they will attend, either this summer or later this year.

Will Attend University of Nebraska—Marilyn Anderson, STU Northeast Station, Concord; Monte D. Hendricks, Scotts Bluff County agent; Delmar Lange, Custer County agent; Mrs. Jane Munson, Boone County agent; Cal J. Ward, supervisor, Agricultural Extension Service; Loyd L. Young, Seward County agent; Hugo J. Zimmerman, NU Northeast Station, Concord.

Will Attend Colorado State University—Clyde Clausen, Hall County agent; John G. Fox, Webster County agent; Larry Hendrix, Knox County agent; Karl A. Leorch, Extension Forester; Don D. Miller, Box Butte County agent; Lee Nielson, Greeley County agent; W. Randall Peterson, Harlan County agent; Don D. Siford, Morrill County agent; Lyle W. Vavser, Nance County agent; Dwaun Trenkle, assistant Extension editor, Department of Information.

Toastmasters To Gather In Omaha

Omaha (P)—The spring conference and speech contest of District 24 Toastmasters International will be held at the Lamplighter Motel in Omaha Saturday.

The one day meeting, expected to attract about 200, will include a speech contest, the annual election, a business meeting and a program for ladies. Dick Torczon of Omaha is unopposed for district governor. Two lieutenant governors and a district educational lieutenant governor also will be selected.

District 24, which includes all of Nebraska except the Panhandle, has been selected as the Speakers Bureau for the Nebraska Centennial. The Toastmaster speakers will prepare taped speeches on Nebraska and be broadcast over Nebraska stations.

Dr. Thorson Will Head Multiple Sclerosis Drive

Dr. Thomas B. Thorson is chairman of the Multiple Sclerosis Society's 1965 fund raising drive in Lincoln. The drive began Mother's Day and will end Father's Day, June 20.

Co-chairmen for the drive are Byron Dunn, commerce and industry; Mrs. John B. Brickson, house to house Hope Chest Drive; and Mrs. Addison Kohout, canisters.

The Hope Chest drives will be held in Lincoln, Seward, Milford, Humboldt, Waverly and Douglas from May 18 through May 23.
